Tax Hike-School Bill Defeated In Ohio House

New Action Okayed On Legislation

Parochial School Aid Included In Big Money Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Republicans unable to keep their troops in line saw the GOP administration's tax hike-education bill defeated early today, but they immediately mapped plans to keep the big money bill alive.

After a party caucus of four hours followed by five hours of floor debate, the Hose voted at 1:30 a.m. to scrap the measure that includes an embattled provision diverting public funds for aid to parochial schools.

The vote was 59-38 but a two-thirds majority of 66 votes was needed because the measure carried an emergency clause to make it effective on signing by the governor.

Eight Republicans left ranks and six Democrats voted for the measure which would raise at least $300 million and perhaps much more for education

Wetzel Supports Education-Tax Bill

Veteran State Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel, R-Columbiana, was among those who supported the Rhodes administration's education - tax bill which failed to pass in the Ohio House early today.

A REAL SQUEEZE PLAY DEVELOPED Wednesday night when big rigs negotiated the tight turn from St. Clair Ave. onto McKinnon Ave. while moving five 135-foot beams to the site of the new East Liverpool schools off Maine Blvd. A stop sign was removed temporarily from the street junction and the tractor rigs moved onto the sidewalk in front of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in negotiating the turn. The Todd Long Span Co. of Point of Rocks, Md., moved the large beams from Frederick, Md., to the school site. The move through East Liverpool led from the Chester Bridge along E. 3rd St., Walnut St., St. Clair Ave. and McKinnon Ave. to the school site. Police said the tricky transport job started at 8:45 p.m. and was completed at 10:05.

Boys Escape Police Chase In Entry Case

Three boys fleeing after an East End drugstore burglary early today narrowly evaded capture by two officers, dropping their loot in their haste, police reported.

Patrolmen H. Clyde Dillon and David Huffman, working together on routine cruiser patrol, interrupted the entry at Bloor's Pharmacy on Pennsylvania Ave. near Mulberry St. about 12:35 a. m., police said.

The boys made their escape in a maze of alleys, streets and back yards in the Mulberry St.-1st Ave. district, but abandoned six cartons of cigarettes which

Slick Defense

Lewis G. VanDyne, 23, of 10th Ave., LaCroft, carried a heavy auto tire up three flights of stairs at City Hall today to convince Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff that using so-called "racing slicks" on the rear of his car was not prima facie evidence of operating an unsafe vehicle, as charged by the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Van Dyne and three other young motorists were found with their cars parked along the Freeway late Friday night, the patrol reported. Patrolman J. F. Cusick charged VanDyne with operating an unsafe car and said the treadless tires would be unsafe on a wet highway.

VanDyne, who had pleaded not guilty, rolled the tire to the bench when his case was called. He told the court the 11-ply tire "has more rubber on it than some of the police cruisers' tires." Convinced, the judge dismissed the charge.

U.S. Pilots Down 2 MIGs In 4th Day Of Attacks

6 More American Jets Shot Down In Raids Against North Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. losses this week in the air war against North Vietnam rose to 12 planes and 18 fliers Wednesday as Communist MIGs and ground batteries downed six more American jets, the U.S. Command announced.

American pilots shot down two Communist MIGs in the fourth straight day of raids into the heavily defended Communist heartland around Hanoi. A third MIG was hit and probably downed, the U.S. Command said.

One flier was rescued and 10 were missing. On Monday, when six other American planes were downed, the command said, two fliers were rescued and eight were listed as missing.

Returning pilots reported spectacular destruction in choked rail yards around Hanoi.

Although the ground war remained generally quiet, Communist terror and sabotage was on the rise. Military authorities reported a train blown from the tracks near Saigon and two buses blown up by mines near Hue. The explosions killed 12 civilians and wounded eight.

The U.S. Command reported 108 Americans died in combat last week and 883 were wounded compared with 82 killed, 748 wounded and nine missing the week before.

Communist losses also increased, from 1,328 killed to 1,498, while South Vietnamese casualties were 172 dead, 538 wounded and five missing, less than the previous week's total of 283 killed, 683 wounded and 62 missing.

The continued heavy raids against the Hanoi area reflected the U.S. Command's determination to pound North Vietnam as hard as possible while favorable weather continues. However, the mounting raids have brought the North Vietnamese air force out in strength, and Red ground gunners are sending up blanket barrages of conventional fire and Soviet-built missiles.

Two of the U. S. planes lost Wednesday were the F4 Phantoms, considered the hottest American jets flying. They were downed by missiles from their Red counterparts, MIG21s.

U. S. headquarters reported seven aerial dogfights in the Hanoi area Wednesday and other MIGs sighted indicating a maximum effort by the North Vietnamese air force, which U. S. intelligence officers estimate numbers about 80 combat-ready jets.

Of the four U. S. jets lost to groundfire, the command said, three were the Phantoms and one an F105 Thunderchief. The headquarters did not disclose whether they were brought down by missiles or conventional ground fire. One was a carrier-based Navy plane, the rest Air Force.

In addition, a helicopter attempting to rescue one of the downed flier was badly shot up and had to turn back. A second chopper made the only successful rescue of the day, snatching the flier from jungle south of Dong Hoi while circling planes laid down a ring of fire and a protective smokescreen around the injured pilot on the ground.

The air losses Wednesday raised to 659 the total of U. S. combat planes reported lost in North Vietnam since the bombing began in February, 1965. Communist losses announced by U. S. officials are now 84 confirmed MIG kills and 12 probables.

Both MIG kills Wednesday were credited to 1st Lt. David B. Waldrop, 25, of Nashville, Tenn., an F105 Thunderchief pilot. A squadron mate, Maj. Billy

China Voices New Threats To British Hong Kong Rule

British To Rebuild Burned Office As Proof They Will Stay In Peking

LONDON (AP) — Britain's diplomatic mission in Peking has returned to its compound and will rebuild the burned out legation building as proof of a determination to stay, the Foreign Office said today.

Red China voiced new threats to British rule in Hong Kong, the center of the Chinese-British dispute, and praised the Red Guards' attack on the mission Tuesday.

Donald Hopson, British charge d'affaires in Peking messaged the Foreign Office that members of his staff and their families were safe and back in their apartments, which were ransacked but not burned. They had taken refuge, after the mob assaults, in other diplomatic compounds.

The Foreign Office said there were plans to fly British women and children out of Peking but there was no question at this stage of withdrawing the diplomatic mission. British policy is not to break diplomatic relations and to hold the mission as long as possible.

The Foreign Office said Hopson suffered minor injuries, but was not seriously hurt in the sacking of the mission.

"It is obviously going to be extremely difficult to operate any kind of effective office there for some time," the spokesman said.

Apart from its diplomatic staff, the British government is still concerned for the safety of an estimated 190 British nationals scattered throughout China.

The official New China News Agency said Communist Chinese in Hong Kong await a signal from Peking to "completely smash the reactionary rule of British imperialism."

In the colony on Red China's southern shore, terrorists burned a Chinese radio comedian known for anti-Communist jokes and his brother. The comedian, Lam Bun, was reported near death after terrorists threw a bomb into his car, then doused him and his brother with gasoline and set them afire.

Japan's Kyodo news service said the official Peking People's Daily praised the burning of Britain's legation in Peking Tuesday as "a revolutionary action."

The attacking Red Guards, youthful followers of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, forced some of the 23 legation staff members to kneel and bow their heads then photographed them while they were taunted and humiliated, reliable sources in London reported.

The British Foreign Office accused Red China of "breaking all normal rules of civilized behavior." But a spokesman said: "It is not our objective to rupture relations. Where we go from now on depends entirely on the attitude and behavior of the Chinese authorities."

Britain's most immediate concern is for the safety of the estimated 190 British nationals scattered throughout Red China. Because of the present internal upheaval in China, London could not be certain even of being able to communicate with many of them.

However, the British have some hostages. The 50 or more Chinese officials, businessmen and newsmen in Britain have been told they cannot leave the country without special permission.

The British also have silenced

Apart from its diplomatic staff, the British government is still concerned for the safety of an estimated 190 British nationals scattered throughout China.

The official New China News Agency said Communist Chinese in Hong Kong await a signal from Peking to "completely smash the reactionary rule of British imperialism."

In the colony on Red China's southern shore, terrorists burned a Chinese radio comedian known for anti-Communist jokes and his brother. The comedian, Lam Bun, was reported near death after terrorists threw a bomb into his car, then doused him and his brother with gasoline and set them afire.

Japan's Kyodo news service said the official Peking People's Daily praised the burning of Britain's legation in Peking Tuesday as "a revolutionary action."

The attacking Red Guards, youthful followers of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, forced some of the 23 legation staff members to kneel and bow their heads then photographed them while they were taunted and humiliated, reliable sources in London reported.

The British Foreign Office accused Red China of "breaking all normal rules of civilized behavior." But a spokesman said: "It is not our objective to rupture relations. Where we go from now on depends entirely on the attitude and behavior of the Chinese authorities."

Britain's most immediate concern is for the safety of the estimated 190 British nationals scattered throughout Red China. Because of the present internal upheaval in China, London could not be certain even of being able to communicate with many of them.

However, the British have some hostages. The 50 or more Chinese officials, businessmen and newsmen in Britain have been told they cannot leave the country without special permission.

The British also have silenced

U.S.-Soviet Treaty Draft Slated Today

GENEVA (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union plan to submit their joint draft of a treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons at a special session of the 17-nation disarmament conference this afternoon, authoritative sources reported.

The meeting was called for 3 p.m.—10 a.m. EDT.

Both nations have reached agreement on a fully detailed, but still incomplete draft, the sources said. It will contain a blank section on the safeguards issue because there is still no agreement on the initial inspection methods needed to police a treaty.

The Russian delegation is expected to call for a quick recess of the conference—possibly before the end of the month—so that there will be little or no time for other nations to study the treaty or make comments on it in Geneva.

The Soviet Union reportedly believes that the two super powers should work out a complete treaty with the minimum of outside interference.

Western sources said the United States will not oppose a recess—provided that the draft be fully discussed at the forthcoming U.N. General Assembly in New York.

The two main points of the draft treaty are:

1. Nuclear powers pledge never to hand over nuclear weapons to other states or in any way assist them to manufacture nuclear arms.

2. Non-Nuclear states promise never to acquire nuclear weapons or attempt to manufacture them.

they had taken from the back room at the drugstore, officers said.

Patrolman Paul C. Blevins, the acting lieutenant in charge of the midnight-8 a. m. shift, praised Dillon and Huffman for their alertness.

A "lookout" apparently spotted the approaching cruiser and warned the youths inside the drugstore, officers said.

Dillon and Huffman were in a cruiser on 1st Ave. preparing to turn left onto Pennsylvania Ave. when they saw three boys running around the corner from Pennsylvania Ave. They called to the three to halt, but the boys continued. Huffman leaped from the cruiser and chased the three on foot, while Dillon gave pursuit in the car.

Despite the pursuit and a hunt that followed, the three suspects disappeared, officers said.

Dillon and Huffman found that the intruders had broken a pane of glass in a side entrance to the drugstore, then reached inside to manipulate the lock.

Meanwhile, a parked car was looted of three bowling trophies and a woman's sweater in the same neighborhood between 11 p. m. Wednesday and 1 a. m. today.

Mrs. Walter Johnson of 928 St. George St. told police the right front vent window of the 1962 model auto was broken while it was parked outside a Mulberry St. bowling alley. The thief or thieves took the sweater and bowling trophies inscribed with the names of Ruth Johnson, Walter Johnson and George McGurran, she said.

Boydston is married to the former Jacqueline Lutze Laughrey. His starting salary will be $423 a month, with increase to $448 later.

Greek King, Queen To Visit U.S., Canada

ATHENS (AP)—King Constantine and Queen Anne-Marie of Greece left today by plane for New York on the way to Canada for a state visit.

A palace announcement said the 27-year-old king would have private talks with President Johnson in Washington on his way home. Official sources said they would probably meet around Sept. 9.

Reliable sources said a major topic of discussion would be resumption of U.S. military aid to Greece, which the U.S. government has been reviewing since the military coup last April 21.

House Passes General Fund Bill

Shafer Aides To Suggest Additional Tax Proposals

By JOHN L. TAYLOR

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Shafer Administration planned to introduce today additional tax proposals supplementing the $267 million revenue raising program already up for final passage in the House.

Legislative sources said four new bills to raise another $36.5 million would be filed in the House Speaker's office. The General Assembly was in recess until Monday.

The latest proposals:

.—A 3 per cent tax on trade-ins of automobiles and appliances, to yield $15 million annually.

—Reduction of the 50-cent sales tax exemption on restaurant meals to 10 cents, yielding another $15 million.

—A straight 1 per cent tax on insurance premiums to be paid by the companies, yielding $5 million.

—Extension of the sales tax to cover cable television service, yielding $1.5 million.

In addition, House Republicans acting in behalf of the administration, planned to amend two existing tax proposals. A measure to raise the inheritance tax from 2 to 6 per cent will be cut back to 4 per cent, reducing the yield from $29 million to $15 million. Another bill to increase the tax on financial institutions from 8 to 10 mills will be scaled up to 12 mills, boosting the yield from $8 million to $16 million.

The new proposals were necessitated by a two-month stalemate over a tax program introduced last June and the resultand loss of revenue that would have been realized during July and August, sources said.

There was every indication the new bills would get the same cold reception the old ones did from House Democrats who have charged the administration with trying to overtax and overspend.

The Democrats made a vain attempt Wednesday to cut $19 million from the administration's $1.46 billion general appropriations bill, which was approved by the House, 107-89.

"Anyone who casts a vote for this bill as it is is committing himself or herself to also vote for $300 million in new taxes." warned House Minority Leader Herbert Fineman.

Five Democrats sided with the Republicans in favor of the bill, while one Republican, Rep. George W. Gekas, R-Dauphin, voted with Democrats against it. Gek is among a handful of Republicans who have resisted voting for new taxes.

Man Charged In Wounding Of Youth, 16

A 59-year-old Hookstown area man was in Beaver County Jail today charged with shooting at three Chester youths near his housetrailer at the Hookstown Fair Wednesday night when one of the youths was wounded by shotgun pellets.

John W. Cowling was arraigned late last night on a charge of assault with intent to maim, and was taken to the Beaver jail in default of $5,000 bond.

Randy Roach, 16, of 562½ 6th St., Chester was treated at the first aid station at the fairgrounds for three pellets in the left arm following the shooting incident at 8:30.

Witnesses said Roach and two companions — Rick Humme, 16, of Fairview St., Chester, and Dan Pryor, 15, of 4th St., Chester—were walking along a lane near Cowling's trailer on his property adjacent to the fairgrounds.

Pennsylvania State Police from Chippewa and Beaver County Sheriff's deputies who were on duty at the fair which opened last night said Cowling came out of his trailer and fired his 12-gauge shotgun at the youths.

Cowling was taken before Justice of the Peace Milton Richel of West Mayfield where bond was set. A preliminary hearing will be held at a later date.

World Has One Superpower

This somewhat startling statement is all the more provocative since it is made by a commentator in a country whose leader would like the world to believe there are three superpowers—the U.S.A., the U.S.S.R. and France.

Russia is indeed a nuclear power, writes Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber in the French news weekly "L'Express," as quoted by Atlas magazine. But it is nothing more.

The United States, however, is both a major nuclear power and a "conventional" power capable of intervening within hours in any part of the world.

This year, he points out, the United States spent more than $50 billion on its armed forces. Russia laid out $15 billion in the same period, or about one-fourth as much.

Since Russia must maintain an intercontinental nuclear striking force on the same scale as the United States and a huge ground army in Eastern Europe as well as on its Siberian border, little remains for military intervention outside its borders.

It is not a question of will or of nuclear capability, says Servan-Schreiber, but of industrial wealth.

The Israeli secret services were the first to discover this gap, he claims, and they learned it from three world crises that preceded the six-day Mideast war of this June—Berlin in 1961, Cubia in 1962 and Vietnam in 1965, when American bombing and troop build-up began on a massive scale.

In each instance, the Soviets pulled back from confrontation with the United States. Thus the Israelis were convinced of the fundamental fact that Russia would not intervene to aid its Arab allies, and laid their plans accordingly.

Suppose, suggests Servan-Schreiber, that North Vietnam is the Israel of Southeast Asia—tough, determined, infused with high morale. South Vietnam is the Arabs—soft irresolute, corrupt. North Vietnam's General Giap is the equivalent of Israel's General Dayan.

Further assume that the threat of Soviet intervention dissuades the United States from setting foot in South Vietnam. Giap's forces, free to act, would soon be in Saigon, just as Dayan's forces swept to the Suez Canal.

The difference is that in one case the American threat keeps Russia from intervening (and Dayan can strike), while in the other case the Russian threat is powerless to prevent American intervention and Giap is paralyzed.)

On the seas and on the orders between the two worlds, Russia is incapable of confronting the United States. The allies of one are protected, the allies of the other are not.

This he sees as the crux of the world situation, and a guarantee of world peace—at least for the foreseeable future.

A Fair Share

Chilly northeastern breezes, football practice under way, school clothes being stocked, birds beginning to shift south — what happened to summer?

Last night's temperatures dipped into the fifties in the area, and although the meteorologists have all sorts of explanations, summer lovers just aren't satisfied.

August ought to be warm, especially this year when good sunsoaker days seemed to be at a premium. So c'mon, weatherman, vacations aren't over just yet. Let's have our fair share before the frost hits the pumpkin.

Remember What Is At Stake

Often it is the little things that count. This is as true in traffic safety as other forms of human endeavor.

Little things like being courteous when it may cost you an extra minute or two in getting to your destination.

Perhaps it means driving slower than the speed limit when coming into a busy intersection.

Maybe its staying in a 6 m.p.h. line of traffic instead of weaving from lane to lane on a 70 m.p.h. highway.

Or it could be following the oft repeated phrase: "Buckle up your seat belt."

Variations of the slogan may seem to be overworked but statistics show that a lot of people either are not listening to or heeding the advice.

In the 21 traffic deaths in Ohio over last weekend only one person was wearing a seat belt. A total of 10 motorists did not have seat belts while three had them in their cars but were not using them. Three of those killed were pedestrians and seat belt data was not available in the other crashes.

Time after time the value of wearing seat belts has been demonstrated. Yet there is a large percentage of drivers who do not use the belts. Many cars do not even have belts installed.

Some auto deaths do occur even when seat belts are in use but the chances of survival are so much greater when they are used that to ignore them is plain foolhardiness.

The extra cost and small amount of time it takes to use seat belts seem insignificant when you remember your life is at stake.

Red China Race

By Leon Dennen

According to a secret Soviet radio called Peace and Progress, some high-ranking Peking officials are planning to escape from China.

If the Russians are to be believed, Mao Tse-tung's fall is imminent. At any rate, the Russians are acting on that assumption.

"Internal strife and quarrels among Mao Tse-tung's close associates will in the end inevitably lead to the disappearance from the Peking political scene of many of the Maoist elements," the clandestine radio said in a Chinese broadcast.

"Some high ranking officials who have no confidence in the firmness of the Mao Tse-tung government are actively preparing to retreat or escape from China."

This may be wishful thinking in Moscow. But, for the Russian Marxist-Leninists, the wish is often father to the act. They are apparently convinced that Mao's government is disintegrating and they want to stage a power comeback in China when he falls.

The Russians take no chances. Having failed in their efforts to convene an anti-Chinese world Communist conference, I learn that they are now sending Soviet agents to China's remote and unruly provinces.

Most of the agents are Red army officers of Chinese and Uzbek origin. Reportedly trained at a special school in the Soviet Republic of Uzbekistan, they are infiltrating China through the Sinkiang province where Mao's Red guards are known to have engaged in military skirmishes with Russian military detachments. Their assignment is to help anti-Mao Communists to foment disorder and seize power wherever possible.

Moscow obviously has information about China's internal struggles that is not available in the West. According to the clandestine radio, Mao and his entourage have a jet plane ready at all times to facilitate their flight from Peking.

"Those rotten and infamous leaders have begun to deposit money squeezed from the people in neutral banks in Switzerland," the radio reported.

"Latest reports from Geneva reveal the Mao Tse-tung ruling clique has opened special accounts in the banks of Geneva and that their agent in Switzerland is Fei I-ming, publisher of the newspaper Kung Pao in Hong Kong."

The Russians also claim to have information that many leaders of China's "cultural revolution" have smuggled funds into West Germany and other foreign countries.

"This is a top level secret," the Soviet radio report said. "But it proves again that Mao Tse-tung and his clique are exceedingly worried about the day when the Chinese people will fully realize how their false leaders in the past few years have ruined the Communist party and have pushed China to economic bankruptcy."

Soviet information about Red China should, of course, be taken with a grain of salt. But the radio report is also significant as a revelation of Moscow's plans should Mao fall.

Recent Soviet action makes it clear that the Russians are using their enormous resources to topple Mao. They are obviously determined to be in Peking before Nationalist China's President Chiang Kai-shek or the United States get there.

War Of The Edsels

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

We were sitting around discussing the war in Vietnam the other night when somebody remembered that Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara used to work for the Ford Company.

Then somebody else said, "I wonder what would have happened if Ford continued making the Edsel motor car?"

Art Buchwald

This is what we decided could have happened.

The year the Edsel came out a high-level conference was called.

The vice president in charge of sales made his report. "Sir, we might as well face it. The Edsel is a bomb. We can't sell enough of them to pay for one advertising spot on the Ed Sullivan show. I think we ought to take our losses and get out."

"Wait a minute," a board member said. "If the Edsel falls, the Ford might fall, then the Mercury and then finally the Continental. Psychologically this would be the greatest victory General Motors could possibly achieve, and our prestige in the motor industry would be impaired forever. We've got too much at stake for us to stop the Edsel now."

"I DISAGREE with you, sir. I think we made a mistake and should admit it."

"Balderdash. The solution is to pour in more men and money. Surely with all our resources we can make the Edsel a big success, and we will show General Motors once and for all that if Ford makes a commitment to a car it will keep it."

"What's your plan, sir?"

"Let's send in our top engineers and develop the best car money can buy."

A year later the high-level group stared glumly at the sales figures. "Sir, as you can see, we only sold 43 cars this year. The people just won't buy the Edsel. It's not their kind of car. Let's get out before it's too late."

"We can't just get out. We've got 50,000 workers commited to making a successful car and we'd be the laughing stock of the world if we quit now. The problem seems to be with the Edsel management team. Let's change the management, send in another 75,000 workers, add an additional $30 million, and we're bound to have a winner on our hands."

A year later the same group met to hear the news that only 23 Edsels had been sold. But one of the topflight executives, who had just returned from a visit to the Edsel factory, was optimistic.

IT MAY TAKE more time than we thought, he said, "but progress is being made. We have to concentrate harder on the customers to win them over before we'll see any results on the sales charts. Our industrial intelligence division says General Motors is hurting badly and that with each new Edsel coming off the production line their morale is sinking to a new low. This is not time to let up. I propose we pour in another 125,000 workers and $50 million additional funds. GM must be made to realize that their hard-sell tactics won't pay off."

Three years later, with 550,000 workers on the production line and a billion dollars invested in the car, only one Edsel was sold — to the Smithsonian Institution.

"What do we do now?" someone asked.

"I think we should stop making Fords, Mercurys, Thunderbirds and Continentals and put all our resources into the Edsel. Our engineers say that all they need is 250,000 more workers and another billion dollars, and they'll have General Motors on their knees."

VICTOR RIESEL

Ending Job Discrimination

Ramsey Clark is a new Attorney General. Because of the seething unrest and street warfare of this and past "long hot summers," I asked him what he believed was the panacea for the violence in our behemoth cities.

Victor Riesel

In view of the upheavals on the streets of our megalopolises, his answer, written especially for this column, becomes triply significant.

Here is his viewpoint exactly as he replied:

WASHINGTON — "Far and away the best prize that life offers," Theodore Roosevelt once said, "is the chance to work hard at work worth doing."

Today, many Americans are denied this prize because of their race. Racial discrimination contributes directly to the unemployment of Negroes, which is twice as high as that of whites.

Denial of employment is a personal tragedy and a national loss. A whole family may suffer not only the loss of the necessities and emenities of a good life, but also dignity itself. When the loss results from the injustice of racial discrimination, the injury is incalculable. Then the nation lives with injustice, while paying to support the unemployed and losing the contributions they would have made.

Equal opportunity will not solve all the employment problems of minorities, but it is an essential first step to a solution.

Ending job discrimination will move us closer to other important national goals. Employment means new independence and broad opportunities for the employed and his family. By making jobs available, we can reduce crime. Employment is the most effective part of the war on poverty. And by helping make full use of our manpower, the nation's entire economy is enhanced.

THREE YEARS AGO, Congress outlawed job discrimination in the historic Civil Rights Act of 1964. But the Act has not had the dramatic results in employment that it has in schools and public accommodations or that the Voting Rights Act of 1965 has had in voter registration.

Success has been limited because the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission created by the 1964 Act is without enforcement authority.

The Commission has only persuasion and conciliation as tools. These sometimes succeed. For example, the Commission signed an agreement last year in which a large employer pledged to provide Negroes with the same pay scales and promotion opportunities as whites. Since then, nearly 4,000 of the firm's 5,000 Negro workers have been promoted.

But such agreements are few in number and do not reach vast areas of discrimination. They are clearly not adequate to the need. The Commission's effectiveness is severely impaired by lack of sanctions. For this reason, President Johnson is recommending that the Commission be authorized to issue cease and desist orders.

This will increase its effectiveness many times over, greatly benefiting the nation!

In the meantime, the federal government is moving under its existing authority to combat employment discrimination. The Department of Justice has a role in this effort.

Present law authorizes the Attorney General to bring civil action to eliminate job discrimination. Vigorous enforcement of this law is now of the highest priority.

More Department attorneys are spending more of their time in the employment area. More employment suits have been filed in the past several months than ever before. More suits will be filed against both companies and unions in the months ahead.

A SUCCESSFUL LAWSUIT has effects far beyond obtaining compliance from a single defendant. It can shape the attitudes of other unions and employers. Precedents will make them more willing to accept their basic responsibilities and enter into fruitful negotiations.

The Department has recently initiated intensive efforts to obtain compliance out of court through negotiation before filing suit. The union or company correcting employment inequities must commit itself to the kind of program a court would be asked to impose. Results, not promises, are the government's goal.

To avoid suit, there must be a commitment to fair and well-publicized procedures for obtaining a job or membership. Any test to determine qualifications must be uniform and objective. Tests for new applicants can be no more stringent than in the past. Policies and practices which perpetuated discrimination must be abandoned. For those that traditionally excluded Negroes, it is not enough to say the doors are now open. They must undertake a program to assure Negroes they are welcome.

Hopefully, great advances will come through voluntary compliance by unions and companies acting in the best interests of all the people, including themselves. But advances must come. For surely among the basic freedoms of modern society is the equal opportunity to work, to build, to create for the benefit of one's self and family and mankind.

DAVID LAWRENCE

Divided View

Congress can at any time adopt a resolution limiting the President's power to carry on the war in Vietnam. It can, in fact, as President Johnson has challenged his critics to do, withdraw the 1964 resolution authorizing the use of armed force in Southeast Asia. Senator J. William Fulbright, Democrat of Arkansas, is mistaken, therefore, when he says that the only "real sanction" Congress has against escalation of the war in Vietnam would be "impeachment" of President Johnson.

There is, moreover, no such "sanction." For the Constitution plainly says that a president can be removed from office only "on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors."

Whenever a president exercises the authority given to him by Congress itself, whether in the form of a joint resolution or in laws appropriating funds for military operations, his acts are not personal but are those of the head of the executive branch of the government. The Constitution does not grant any authority to "impeach" a president for performing the duties of his office or for allegedly failing to act in accordance with resolutions passed by Congress. These are matters of policy and, if wrongly applied, the people can do the "removing" at the next election.

THE SENATE Foreign Relations Committee of which Senator Fulbright is chairman, is engaged at present in a study of what is known as "separation of powers" in order to define the respective responsibilities of the executive and legislative branches of the government. But there's one field of inquiry into which the Senate probably will not venture, though it could define clearly and explicitly the line beyond which the foreign relations committee itself may not go. For no committee by itself can interfere with executive operations or the conduct of foreign policy.

Many times in the last several decades a chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has undertaken to speak out against the foreign policy of the administration in power. This has happened even when he was a member of the party in control of the White House and State Department. Although their criticisms have at times unwittingly misled foreign governments, there is, of course, no way of "impeaching" such senators.

Mr. Fulbright's speeches in opposition to the administration's policy in Vietnam have been widely read abroad and have been taken to mean that the American people are divided and that at any moment President Johnson will find his powers in the Vietnam war curtailed. This tends to encourage the enemy to believe that, if the war is prolonged, the United States will be compelled to withdraw.

While several senators, as chairmen of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in the past, have also unintentionally helped to mislead America's adversaries, the fact remains that, when speeches and statements are publicized abroad, there is no clear line of "separation" between the views of a chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and those of the committee itself.

MEMBERS OF Congress, of course, are familiar with the distinction, though it is assumed by the general public that, when the chairman of a senate committee speaks, he is doing so with the authority and approval of the members of his committee. Mr. Fulbright is a conscientious man and is entitled to his viewpoint. But, as in the case of many of his predecessors, an erroneous idea is being derived as to to the extent of the powers of a chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Thus, the speech made by Senator Fulbright discussing possible "impeachment" of the President is unquestionably his own view. In foreign countries, however, which are more familar with the parliamentary system of government, it doubtless will be concluded that, since Mr. Fulbright is a Democrat and his party is in control of both houses of congress as well as the presidency, Mr. Johnson's power to conduct the Vietnam war is in danger of being weakened or restricted.

There certainly is need to apply the doctrine of "separation of powers" to the viewpoints expressed by senators as individuals and those which they may formally express as chairman in behalf of a committee, particularly one as important as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

World Has One Superpower

This somewhat startling statement is all the more provocative since it is made by a commentator in a country whose leader would like the world to believe there are three superpowers—the U.S.A., the U.S.S.R. and France.

Russia is indeed a nuclear power, writes Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber in the French news weekly "L'Express," as quoted by Atlas magazine. But it is nothing more.

The United States, however, is both a major nuclear power and a "conventional" power capable of intervening within hours in any part of the world.

This year, he points out, the United States spent more than $50 billion on its armed forces. Russia laid out $15 billion in the same period, or about one-fourth as much.

Since Russia must maintain an intercontinental nuclear striking force on the same scale as the United States and a huge ground army in Eastern Europe as well as on its Siberian border, little remains for military intervention outside its borders.

It is not a question of will or of nuclear capability, says Servan-Schreiber, but of industrial wealth.

The Israeli secret services were the first to discover this gap, he claims, and they learned it from three world crises that preceded the six-day Mideast war of this June—Berlin in 1961, Cubia in 1962 and Vietnam in 1965, when American bombing and troop build-up began on a massive scale.

In each instance, the Soviets pulled back from confrontation with the United States. Thus the Israelis were convinced of the fundamental fact that Russia would not intervene to aid its Arab allies, and laid their plans accordingly.

Suppose, suggests Servan-Schreiber, that North Vietnam is the Israel of Southeast Asia—tough, determined, infused with high morale. South Vietnam is the Arabs—soft irresolute, corrupt. North Vietnam's General Giap is the equivalent of Israel's General Dayan.

Further assume that the threat of Soviet intervention dissuades the United States from setting foot in South Vietnam. Giap's forces, free to act, would soon be in Saigon, just as Dayan's forces swept to the Suez Canal.

The difference is that in one case the American threat keeps Russia from intervening (and Dayan can strike), while in the other case the Russian threat is powerless to prevent American intervention and Giap is paralyzed.)

On the seas and on the orders between the two worlds, Russia is incapable of confronting the United States. The allies of one are protected, the allies of the other are not.

This he sees as the crux of the world situation, and a guarantee of world peace—at least for the foreseeable future.

A Fair Share

Chilly northeastern breezes, football practice under way, school clothes being stocked, birds beginning to shift south — what happened to summer?

Last night's temperatures dipped into the fifties in the area, and although the meteorologists have all sorts of explanations, summer lovers just aren't satisfied.

August ought to be warm, especially this year when good sunsoaker days seemed to be at a premium. So c'mon, weatherman, vacations aren't over just yet. Let's have our fair share before the frost hits the pumpkin.

Remember What Is At Stake

Often it is the little things that count. This is as true in traffic safety as other forms of human endeavor.

Little things like being courteous when it may cost you an extra minute or two in getting to your destination.

Perhaps it means driving slower than the speed limit when coming into a busy intersection.

Maybe its staying in a 6 m.p.h. line of traffic instead of weaving from lane to lane on a 70 m.p.h. highway.

Or it could be following the oft repeated phrase: "Buckle up your seat belt."

Variations of the slogan may seem to be overworked but statistics show that a lot of people either are not listening to or heeding the advice.

In the 21 traffic deaths in Ohio over last weekend only one person was wearing a seat belt. A total of 10 motorists did not have seat belts while three had them in their cars but were not using them. Three of those killed were pedestrians and seat belt data was not available in the other crashes.

Time after time the value of wearing seat belts has been demonstrated. Yet there is a large percentage of drivers who do not use the belts. Many cars do not even have belts installed.

Some auto deaths do occur even when seat belts are in use but the chances of survival are so much greater when they are used that to ignore them is plain foolhardiness.

The extra cost and small amount of time it takes to use seat belts seem insignificant when you remember your life is at stake.

Red China Race

By Leon Dennen

According to a secret Soviet radio called Peace and Progress, some high-ranking Peking officials are planning to escape from China.

If the Russians are to be believed, Mao Tse-tung's fall is imminent. At any rate, the Russians are acting on that assumption.

"Internal strife and quarrels among Mao Tse-tung's close associates will in the end inevitably lead to the disappearance from the Peking political scene of many of the Maoist elements," the clandestine radio said in a Chinese broadcast.

"Some high ranking officials who have no confidence in the firmness of the Mao Tse-tung government are actively preparing to retreat or escape from China."

This may be wishful thinking in Moscow. But, for the Russian Marxist-Leninists, the wish is often father to the act. They are apparently convinced that Mao's government is disintegrating and they want to stage a power comeback in China when he falls.

The Russians take no chances. Having failed in their efforts to convene an anti-Chinese world Communist conference, I learn that they are now sending Soviet agents to China's remote and unruly provinces.

Most of the agents are Red army officers of Chinese and Uzbek origin. Reportedly trained at a special school in the Soviet Republic of Uzbekistan, they are infiltrating China through the Sinkiang province where Mao's Red guards are known to have engaged in military skirmishes with Russian military detachments. Their assignment is to help anti-Mao Communists to foment disorder and seize power wherever possible.

Moscow obviously has information about China's internal struggles that is not available in the West. According to the clandestine radio, Mao and his entourage have a jet plane ready at all times to facilitate their flight from Peking.

"Those rotten and infamous leaders have begun to deposit money squeezed from the people in neutral banks in Switzerland," the radio reported.

"Latest reports from Geneva reveal the Mao Tse-tung ruling clique has opened special accounts in the banks of Geneva and that their agent in Switzerland is Fei I-ming, publisher of the newspaper Kung Pao in Hong Kong."

The Russians also claim to have information that many leaders of China's "cultural revolution" have smuggled funds into West Germany and other foreign countries.

"This is a top level secret," the Soviet radio report said. "But it proves again that Mao Tse-tung and his clique are exceedingly worried about the day when the Chinese people will fully realize how their false leaders in the past few years have ruined the Communist party and have pushed China to economic bankruptcy."

Soviet information about Red China should, of course, be taken with a grain of salt. But the radio report is also significant as a revelation of Moscow's plans should Mao fall.

Recent Soviet action makes it clear that the Russians are using their enormous resources to topple Mao. They are obviously determined to be in Peking before Nationalist China's President Chiang Kai-shek or the United States get there.

Ending Job Discrimination

Ramsey Clark is a new Attorney General. Because of the seething unrest and street warfare of this and past "long hot summers," I asked him what he believed was the panacea for the violence in our behemoth cities.

Victor Riesel

In view of the upheavals on the streets of our megalopolises, his answer, written especially for this column, becomes triply significant.

Here is his viewpoint exactly as he replied:

WASHINGTON — "Far and away the best prize that life offers," Theodore Roosevelt once said, "is the chance to work hard at work worth doing."

Today, many Americans are denied this prize because of their race. Racial discrimination contributes directly to the unemployment of Negroes, which is twice as high as that of whites.

Denial of employment is a personal tragedy and a national loss. A whole family may suffer not only the loss of the necessities and emenities of a good life, but also dignity itself. When the loss results from the injustice of racial discrimination, the injury is incalculable. Then the nation lives with injustice, while paying to support the unemployed and losing the contributions they would have made.

Equal opportunity will not solve all the employment problems of minorities, but it is an essential first step to a solution.

Ending job discrimination will move us closer to other important national goals. Employment means new independence and broad opportunities for the employed and his family. By making jobs available, we can reduce crime. Employment is the most effective part of the war on poverty. And by helping make full use of our manpower, the nation's entire economy is enhanced.

THREE YEARS AGO, Congress outlawed job discrimination in the historic Civil Rights Act of 1964. But the Act has not had the dramatic results in employment that it has in schools and public accommodations or that the Voting Rights Act of 1965 has had in voter registration.

Success has been limited because the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission created by the 1964 Act is without enforcement authority.

The Commission has only persuasion and conciliation as tools. These sometimes succeed. For example, the Commission signed an agreement last year in which a large employer pledged to provide Negroes with the same pay scales and promotion opportunities as whites. Since then, nearly 4,000 of the firm's 5,000 Negro workers have been promoted.

But such agreements are few in number and do not reach vast areas of discrimination. They are clearly not adequate to the need. The Commission's effectiveness is severely impaired by lack of sanctions. For this reason, President Johnson is recommending that the Commission be authorized to issue cease and desist orders.

This will increase its effectiveness many times over, greatly benefiting the nation!

In the meantime, the federal government is moving under its existing authority to combat employment discrimination. The Department of Justice has a role in this effort.

Present law authorizes the Attorney General to bring civil action to eliminate job discrimination. Vigorous enforcement of this law is now of the highest priority.

More Department attorneys are spending more of their time in the employment area. More employment suits have been filed in the past several months than ever before. More suits will be filed against both companies and unions in the months ahead.

A SUCCESSFUL LAWSUIT has effects far beyond obtaining compliance from a single defendant. It can shape the attitudes of other unions and employers. Precedents will make them more willing to accept their basic responsibilities and enter into fruitful negotiations.

The Department has recently initiated intensive efforts to obtain compliance out of court through negotiation before filing suit. The union or company correcting employment inequities must commit itself to the kind of program a court would be asked to impose. Results, not promises, are the government's goal.

To avoid suit, there must be a commitment to fair and well-publicized procedures for obtaining a job or membership. Any test to determine qualifications must be uniform and objective. Tests for new applicants can be no more stringent than in the past. Policies and practices which perpetuated discrimination must be abandoned. For those that traditionally excluded Negroes, it is not enough to say the doors are now open. They must undertake a program to assure Negroes they are welcome.

Hopefully, great advances will come through voluntary compliance by unions and companies acting in the best interests of all the people, including themselves. But advances must come. For surely among the basic freedoms of modern society is the equal opportunity to work, to build, to create for the benefit of one's self and family and mankind.

DAVID LAWRENCE

Divided View

Congress can at any time adopt a resolution limiting the President's power to carry on the war in Vietnam. It can, in fact, as President Johnson has challenged his critics to do, withdraw the 1964 resolution authorizing the use of armed force in Southeast Asia. Senator J. William Fulbright, Democrat of Arkansas, is mistaken, therefore, when he says that the only "real sanction" Congress has against escalation of the war in Vietnam would be "impeachment" of President Johnson.

There is, moreover, no such "sanction." For the Constitution plainly says that a president can be removed from office only "on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors."

Whenever a president exercises the authority given to him by Congress itself, whether in the form of a joint resolution or in laws appropriating funds for military operations, his acts are not personal but are those of the head of the executive branch of the government. The Constitution does not grant any authority to "impeach" a president for performing the duties of his office or for allegedly failing to act in accordance with resolutions passed by Congress. These are matters of policy and, if wrongly applied, the people can do the "removing" at the next election.

THE SENATE Foreign Relations Committee of which Senator Fulbright is chairman, is engaged at present in a study of what is known as "separation of powers" in order to define the respective responsibilities of the executive and legislative branches of the government. But there's one field of inquiry into which the Senate probably will not venture, though it could define clearly and explicitly the line beyond which the foreign relations committee itself may not go. For no committee by itself can interfere with executive operations or the conduct of foreign policy.

Many times in the last several decades a chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has undertaken to speak out against the foreign policy of the administration in power. This has happened even when he was a member of the party in control of the White House and State Department. Although their criticisms have at times unwittingly misled foreign governments, there is, of course, no way of "impeaching" such senators.

Mr. Fulbright's speeches in opposition to the administration's policy in Vietnam have been widely read abroad and have been taken to mean that the American people are divided and that at any moment President Johnson will find his powers in the Vietnam war curtailed. This tends to encourage the enemy to believe that, if the war is prolonged, the United States will be compelled to withdraw.

While several senators, as chairmen of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in the past, have also unintentionally helped to mislead America's adversaries, the fact remains that, when speeches and statements are publicized abroad, there is no clear line of "separation" between the views of a chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and those of the committee itself.

MEMBERS OF Congress, of course, are familiar with the distinction, though it is assumed by the general public that, when the chairman of a senate committee speaks, he is doing so with the authority and approval of the members of his committee. Mr. Fulbright is a conscientious man and is entitled to his viewpoint. But, as in the case of many of his predecessors, an erroneous idea is being derived as to to the extent of the powers of a chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Thus, the speech made by Senator Fulbright discussing possible "impeachment" of the President is unquestionably his own view. In foreign countries, however, which are more familar with the parliamentary system of government, it doubtless will be concluded that, since Mr. Fulbright is a Democrat and his party is in control of both houses of congress as well as the presidency, Mr. Johnson's power to conduct the Vietnam war is in danger of being weakened or restricted.

There certainly is need to apply the doctrine of "separation of powers" to the viewpoints expressed by senators as individuals and those which they may formally express as chairman in behalf of a committee, particularly one as important as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Alaska 67 Exposition Closes With Losses Up To $500,000

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — The Alaska 67 exposition, expensively conceived, optimistically born and poverty stricken throughout its four months existence has closed prematurely with losses estimated up to a half-million dollars.

The site was closed after the swirling muddy waters of the Chena River flooded last week and covered it as well as the rest of Fairbanks.

E. F. Stroecker, A-67 manager, announced Wednesday that the exposition celebrating the centennial of the Alaska purchase would remain closed for the season which was to have continued until Sept. 17. The grounds will reopen next year he said. The site opened in April with speeches, pageantry, and the booming of cannon.

Stroecker said a detailed assessment of the flood damage at the exposition has not been made. But he said a "rough estimate" indicates losses will run some $400,000 to $500,000.

An additional $500,000 burdens the site, Stroecker said, as a result of operating losses caused by less than expected attendance, the costs of closing the site for the winter, maintaining security, and reopening next spring.

The exposition was in the red even before opening as construction costs reached $1.5 million more than anticipated in the rush to finish the grounds for the tourist season.

Dry Electrical Storms Fanning Fires In Forests

By The Associated Press

Dry electrical storms, pushed by wind gusts up to 30 miles per hour, fanned forest fires in north Idaho and western Montana on Wednesday chasing several fire crews from the path of blazes.

In British Columbia, the Northwest's other critical fire area, conditions were little changed early today. A 30,000-acre blaze at Shuswap Lake, 250 miles northeast of Vancouver, still burned out of control. Canadian officials reported 335 fires still burning.

More than 100,000 acres of forest land in Idaho, Montana, Oregon and British Columbia have burned in the past two weeks. Early today, it was estimated about 80,000 acres were still aflame or smoldering.

As wind gusts bore down on two blazes totalling more than 5,000 acres in Glacier National Park, officials reported crews were scurrying to avoid shifts in fire directions. No injuries were reported.

Mennonites Ask LBJ To Change Viet War Policy

It said in a resolution Wednesday, "American military action ...in that land appears to us to be unwarranted and evil and in this case, evil requires a change of course, not escalation." The group passed the resolution at its biennial, four-day meeting attended by some 300 delegates from 12 states and three Canadian provinces, as well as 70 delegates from foreign countries.

in the two-year bookkeeping period ending July 1, 1969.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess R-4 Wood said the parochial school provision — pouring $15 million into so-called "auxiliary services" for church affiliated schools— apparently was not the reason for defection by the eight GOP House members.

The speaker said "perhaps one or two" left ranks to vote against the bill for that reason and added "beyond that, I don't know what to attribute it to."

Representatives approved a motion by Rep. James Thorpe R-90 Alliance, Stark, to reconsider the measure and leave it pending. He was one of the mavericks. Kurfess indicated the motion will be brought up for consideration at a 10:30 a.m. floor session today.

Besides Thorpe, Republicans rejecting the bill were Edwin T. Hofstetter R-36 Geauga, Robert E. Netzley R-7 Miami, Richard G. Reichel R-92 Massillon, Stark; Thomas B. Rentschler R-40 Butler, Henry H. Schriver R-75 Lorain, Robert C. Carpenter R-15 Seneca, and Robert Jones R-Columbus.

Democrats supporting the measure were Richard M. Christiansen D-17 Richland, David L. Headley D-96 Barberton, Summit, Joseph R. Kainrad D-35 Portage, Vaughn Stocksdale D-3 Darke, Myrl H. Shoemaker D-21 Ross, and Vernal G. Riffe Jr. D-22 Scioto.

Observers speculated immediately over the effect of the emergency clause being defeated because with a non-emergency effective date the bill will take 90 days to become effective.

Tax and appropriation sections of the bill take effect immediately under the constitution but the school foundation portion — carrying $216 million in new money for elementary and secondary schools — will not take effect until December.

Stayner Brighton, executive head of the Ohio Education Association, said House members who helped defeat the bill "were only penalizing the teachers of the state of Ohio" who will have to wait an additional 90 days for their "sorely needed" pay increases.

Lawmakers who began their meetings didn't even discuss a previous prediction by leaders that they would be through with major business today to recess until a winter cleanup session. Some even expressed doubts they could finish Friday or even at a rare Saturday session.

The Senate in afternoon and evening sessions plodded through a heavy calendar of bills, including major proposals on highway safety and water pollution control. Both were passed previously by the House.

Minority Leader Frank R. Pokorny D-57 Cleveland failed in a floor attempt to separate the big tax increase bill into the three separate sections.

An early amendment adopted 67-30 would increase the state corporate franchise tax from 3 to 4 mills and change its application from the origin of goods shipped to their destination. Sponsors said the revenue increase would be about $10 million a year, about the same as under a committee-approved boost to 3.5 mills without the application change.

Other features of the bill include:

Pay increases for teachers averaging $700-800 in the biennium.

A requirement for school districts to adopt minimum teacher salary schedules.

A boost in classroom support from $2,450 to $3,050 in the more wealthy districts and from $1,910 to 2,425 in additional aid districts.

An increase from 10 to 17.5 mills after Dec. 31 the local operating millage required for districts to receive foundation funds, with a waiver to Jan. 1, 1969, for districts to vote needed additional millage.

Authority for the Board of Regents to review and vote tuition and fee schedules of state universities.

Creation of a Senate-House committee and appropriation of $75,000 to "review the administration at all levels of education in Ohio" and report to the 1969 legislature.

Allocation of aid to disadvantaged children only in districts with 100 ADC pupils or 5 per cent of pupils aged 5-17 living in those districts.

Rep. Robert F. Reckman R-68 Cincinnati offered an amendment to increase ADC aid from $100 to 200 a pupil in the second year, which he said would provide $2.5 million to the Cleveland School District, which has the highest percentage of disadvantaged children in the state.

Reckman's amendment drew Democratic support but lost 47-45.

Tax increases to raise the additional education funds, in addition to the franchise tax boost, would:

Raise the state's 3 per cent sales tax to 4 cents on the dollar, starting on 16-cent sales instead of 31 cents, with graduated brackets to 4 cents on sales between 72 cents and $1.

Apply the sales tax to beer and malt beverages, cigarettes and some now-exempt business, manufacturing and utility items.

Add 2 cents to the present 5-cent state excise tax on a pack of cigarettes.

The highway safety measure cleared the Senate without dissent although Senators debated on an amendment by Sen. Charles J. Carney D-33 Youngstown to retain use of radar warning signs removed by the bill.

Carney, Sen. Robin Turner R-14 Marion and others maintained such signs act as a deterent to speeders even in absence of police.

The amendment lost 11-20.

Other provisions of the omnibus bill — which emerged from nearly two years of study — require driver education for students under 18 prior to issuing them a license, random inspection of vehicles, an "implied consent" amendment in the law under which motorists are deemed to have consented to blood alcohol tests upon application for their license, require special examination of motorcycle operators and also make crash helmets and protective glasses mandatory for them and their passengers.

The bill increases the fee for three-year driver licenses from 75 cents to $4 to pay the cost of driver training in the high schools estimated at $7 million the first year of the program in 1969.

Another major bill on which Senate action virtually completed enactment strengthens Ohio law on water management and water pollution control. The measures beefs up powers of the Water Pollution Control Board and gives added responsibilities to the Department of Natural Resources.

Three House-passed bills dealing with riot control were passed by the Senate and returned to the House for consideration of minor amendments.

They would increase minimum pay of National Guardsmen on riot and emergency duty from $6 to $12.80 a day, permit the governor to call out the guard without a request from local authorities, and permit police to cordon off riot areas and prohibit sale of firearms, explosives, and other dangerous materials during periods of riot.

Other bills passed by the Senate, previously approved by the House, included those which would:

—Authorize the attorney general to represent the state and political subdivisions in anti-trust actions.

—Require welfare mothers be referred to family planning service.

—Increase burial allowance for the needy blind from $180 to $220.

—Authorize conservancy districts to issue notes and bonds.

—License and regulate solid waste disposal systems.

—Relieve from administration estates of $3,000 or less in value (present law exempts those below $2,000).

—Regulates and licenses practical nurses.

—Authorize school boards to spend one-half of one per cent of their general revenue fund each year for extracurricular school activities.

Irene Kay McSwegin Wed In Rites At Church Here

William McSwegin, a ministerial student at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., assisted with the ceremony when his sister, Miss Irene Kay McSwegin, became the bride of Paul Shutt last Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in the First Church of Christ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merl McSwegin of 1514 Allison St. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Shutt of Sugarcreek, Ohio.

The Rev. E.C. Traylor officiated for the double-ring rites before an altar banked with white gladioli, palms, ferns and candelabra. Satin bows marked the family pews.

RALPH FALCONER of Wellsville, cousin of the bride, presented a half - hour recital of organ selections. During the service, Miss Susan Winkler of Fenton, Mich., played an instrumental number, "Adagio," from Clarinet Concerto in A Major by Mozart. Miss McSwegin was a clarinet major.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a full - length gown of Otterman silk and Swiss lace fashioned with a bateau neckline, Dior sleeves and A-line skirt. The lace was appliqued on the Empire bodice and the chapel-length Watteau train.

Her bouffant veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a queen's crown of crystals and pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of pink roses, stephanotis and English ivy. In observing the traditions, she borrowed a hand-carved ivory rose necklace and earnings from her mother.

Miss Charita Jones of North Palm Beach, Fla., maid of honor, wore a full-length gown of pale pink Otterman silk designed with an overskirt of pink chiffon. Daisy motifs were used to accent the Empire bodice and Watteau train.

Bridesmaids, appearing in candy-pink gowns, were Miss Lois Shutt of Littleton, Colo., sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. J. Richard Gonzales of Hammond, Ind., cousin of the bride, and Mrs. William Woods Jr. of Cambridge, Mass.

All the attendants wore pink petal veils and white accessories and carried cascades of pink variegated carnations interspersed with ivy and tied with satin streamers.

Kristel Shutt, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a dress styled with a white bodice and candy pink skirt. Her floral tiara matched the pink and white flowers she carried in her basket.

Earl Shutt of Orrtanna, Pa., served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Mike Alijevych of Cincinnati, Andy Alijevych of Sugarcreek and David Gerber of Hagerstown, Md., cousin of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride chose an ensemble of Dior blue lace with matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother a pink ensemble interwoven with gold and black silk thread, with white accessories. Corsages of white carnations complemented their attire.

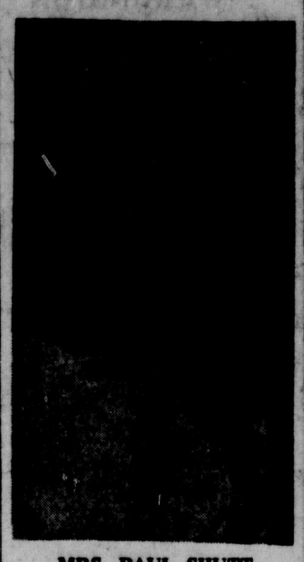
A RECEPTION for 200 followed in the social rooms under the supervision of Sigma Alpha Class. The buffet table was covered with a white cloth, overlaid with pink silk and accented with clusters of wedding bells, maline and greenery. The four-tier cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple. Pink tapers in silver candelabra completed the setting.



MRS. PAUL SHUTT
Will Reside In Michigan.

Aides were Mrs. Jack Nardy of Columbus, Miss Edwina Starks of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Miss Nancy Ramsy of Lisbon and Miss Diane Robinson of Lakewood, cousins of the bride. Mrs. Jack Davis of Findlay presided at the guest register.

Other communities represented at the wedding were Cambridge, Mass.; Riverview, Mich.; Littleton, Colo.; Hammond, Ind.; Batavia, N. Y.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Philadelphia and Wireton, Pa.; Alliance, Attica, Brilliant, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Dover, Freemont, Jenera, Lorain, New Concord, Sebring, Tiffin, West Liberty, Wooster, Youngstown, Aliquippa, Georgetown, Chester and New Cumberland.

For her honeymoon trip to the New England States, the bride was attired in a blue linen dress with matching coat and white accessories and pink rosebud corsage.

The bride, a 1959 graduate of East Liverpool High School, received her bachelor of music degree in 1963 from Ohio Wesleyan University and did graduate work toward a master's degree at the Iowa State University. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta, Mu Phi Epsilon, Kappa Delta Pi and Tau Beta Sigma. She formerly taught music in Tiffin and has accepted a position as music teacher in the school system of Grosse, Ile, Mich.

Her husband was graduated from Baltic High School in Tuscarawas County. Bluffton College and Ohio State University, with Phi Tau Sigma and Tau Beta Phi fraternities. He is employed as a research engineer for the Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn, Mich.

The bridegroom's parents entertained for the rehearsal dinner party at the Holiday Inn at Waterford Park.

The newlyweds will reside in Riverview, Mich.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—What are some tips on the laundering of colored garments?

A.—Don't soak them, since the colors may bleed or run. The danger is the same if you leave them lying wet. Don't dry colored fabrics in the sun, as they may fade. Prints or colors should not be ironed in double thicknesses. To avoid streaks and wanderlust colors, don't hang colored garments or iron them while too damp.

Q.—What is the best way to deal with lipstick stains on fabrics?

A.—If the stain is fresh, carbon tetrachloride is often enough. Otherwise, lubricate the stain well with white mineral oil or petroleum jelly, and flush with carbon tetrachloride.

Q.—How can I prevent olive oil from turning rancid?

A.—By adding two lumps of sugar to each quart of olive oil.

Irene Kay McSwegin Wed In Rites At Church Here

William McSwegin, a ministerial student at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., assisted with the ceremony when his sister, Miss Irene Kay McSwegin, became the bride of Paul Shutt last Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in the First Church of Christ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merl McSwegin of 1514 Allison St. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Shutt of Sugarcreek, Ohio.

The Rev. E.C. Traylor officiated for the double-ring rites before an altar banked with white gladioli, palms, ferns and candelabra. Satin bows marked the family pews.

RALPH FALCONER of Wellsville, cousin of the bride, presented a half - hour recital of organ selections. During the service, Miss Susan Winkler of Fenton, Mich., played an instrumental number, "Adagio," from Clarinet Concerto in A Major by Mozart. Miss McSwegin was a clarinet major.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a full - length gown of Otterman silk and Swiss lace fashioned with a bateau neckline, Dior sleeves and A-line skirt. The lace was appliqued on the Empire bodice and the chapel-length Watteau train.

Her bouffant veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a queen's crown of crystals and pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of pink roses, stephanotis and English ivy. In observing the traditions, she borrowed a hand-carved ivory rose necklace and earnings from her mother.

Miss Charita Jones of North Palm Beach, Fla., maid of honor, wore a full-length gown of pale pink Otterman silk designed with an overskirt of pink chiffon. Daisy motifs were used to accent the Empire bodice and Watteau train.

Bridesmaids, appearing in candy pink gowns, were Miss Lois Shutt of Littleton, Colo., sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. J. Richard Gonzales of Hammond, Ind., cousin of the bride, and Mrs. William Woods Jr. of Cambridge, Mass.

All the attendants wore pink petal veils and white accessories and carried cascades of pink variegated carnations interspersed with ivy and tied with satin streamers.

Kristel Shutt, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a dress styled with a white bodice and candy pink skirt. Her floral tiara matched the pink and white flowers she carried in her basket.

Earl Shutt of Orrtanna, Pa., served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Mike Alijevych of Cincinnati, Andy Alijevych of Sugarcreek and David Gerber of Hagerstown, Md., cousin of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride chose an ensemble of Dior blue lace with matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother a pink ensemble interwoven with gold and black silk thread, with white accessories. Corsages of white carnations complemented their attire.

A RECEPTION for 200 followed in the social rooms under the supervision of Sigma Alpha Class. The buffet table was covered with a white cloth, overlaid with pink silk and accented with clusters of wedding bells, maline and greenery. The fourtier cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple. Pink tapers in silver candelabra completed the setting.

MRS. PAUL SHUTT
Will Reside In Michigan.

Aides were Mrs. Jack Nardy of Columbus, Miss Edwina Starks of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Miss Nancy Ramsy of Lisbon and Miss Diane Robinson of Lakewood, cousins of the bride. Mrs. Jack Davis of Findlay presided at the guest register.

Other communities represented at the wedding were Cambridge, Mass.; Riverview, Mich.; Littleton, Colo.; Hammond, Ind.; Batavia, N. Y.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Philadelphia and Wireton, Pa.; Alliance, Attica, Brilliant, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Dover, Freemont, Jenera, Lorain, New Concord, Sebring, Tiffin, West Liberty, Wooster, Youngstown, Aliquippa, Georgetown, Chester and New Cumberland.

For her honeymoon trip to the New England States, the bride was attired in a blue linen dress with matching coat and white accessories and pink rosebud corsage.

The bride, a 1959 graduate of East Liverpool High School, received her bachelor of music degree in 1963 from Ohio Wesleyan University and did graduate work toward a master's degree at the Iowa State University. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta, Mu Phi Epsilon, Kappa Delta Pi and Tau Beta Sigma. She formerly taught music in Tiffin and has accepted a position as music teacher in the school system of Grosse, Ile, Mich.

Her husband was graduated from Baltic High School in Tuscarawas County. Bluffton College and Ohio State University, with Phi Tau Sigma and Tau Beta Phi fraternities. He is employed as a research engineer for the Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn, Mich.

For Use In Emergencies

Council At Midland OK's New Special Police Unit

An ordinance creating a special police corps for Midland was adopted when the Midland Borough Council met Wednesday night at the Borough Building.

The corps will be created for the welfare and safety of citizens of Midland, and would be called to duty in time of any disaster or emergency except labor disturbances, authorities said.

The ordinance empowers Mayor Eli G. Corak to nominate acceptable persons as special police. They will be sworn in by the Mayor, and will serve when he calls upon them.

Any person who is a citizen and who is free of convictions of subversive activities or involvement in subversive activities against the government may be eligible to serve in the special police corps. Those selected will have the same power to enforce the law as regular police when called upon and will receive renumeration at the decision of Council.

In other business Robert E. Tudek, vice president and general manager of Centre Video of State College, locally known as Steele Valley Cablevision of Midland, and Henry V. Kemp, regional manager, reported on the progress of bringing cable television into Midland.

Tudek said the company plans to begin work by sometime next week, and the project should be completed in about five weeks. The company's request for an antenna site on borough property was turned over to the property committee and Atty. Frank Suffoletta, solicitor, for study and with the power to act in leasing the property.

Tudek said the firm's office in Midland will open next week. A clerk has been hired to work in the office. The company will initiate their sales program by Sept. 1. He said a delay in operation has been caused by the difficulty in locating an antenna site in Midland, so the appeal was made to Council for the company to lease a piece of Borough property.

Kemp of Center Township works out of the regional headquarters in Ambridge.

Bill Hiking Vets Benefits Sent To LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill greatly increasing a long list of benefits for veterans, including those who have served in Vietnam, has been sent President Johnson by the Senate.

The bill's final provisions, said Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., its floor manager, go far beyond the administration's budget requests. But he said he is confident the President will sign it.

The bill includes these main features:

—Pension increases for two million veterans and their widows amounting to 5.4 per cent for most recipients, with hikes up to 8.5 per cent to widows in the lowest income categories.

—Vietnam veterans would receive the same levels of benefits as veterans of other conflicts.

—Educational allowances for veterans qualifying under the "Cold War" G. I. Bill would be raised and several categories of training would be added.

One of the chief targets Wednesday was the Yen Vien rail yard seven miles northeast of Hanoi, which Air Force pilots reported was choked with about 100 boxcars, some damaged in previous raids. Pilots reported at least 50 cars destroyed or damaged Wednesday.

Similarly, the Bac Giang yard 28 miles above Hanoi on the main northeast rail line to Red China was left in a cloud of smoke and debris.

The rolling stock from Red China has been building up in the yards north of Hanoi because earlier raids dropped the rail bridges spanning the Red River into the North Vietnamese capital.

Navy pilots reported dropping three of the five spans on the 430-foot Thai Binh bridge 37 miles southwest of Haiphong. Another bridge at Vat Cach only seven miles from the big Red port also was reported cut.

Other Air Force, Navy asd Marine fliers ranged from Hanoi to the 17th parallel blasting bridges, trucks, rail cars and canal and river traffic. A total of 122 missions were flown.

While the fighter-bombers kept up the war in the North, B52s kept up the pace with four heavy strikes in South Vietnam Wednesday night and today.

The big eight-engine bombers raked Communist supply points and suspected hideouts in th Mekong delta, the central highlands and the coastal plains of the northern provinces, where most ground fighting has recently centered.

Despite the mounting U. S. air losses, a parade of top American military leaders continued to advocate stepped-up bombing of North Vietnam. Appearing before a Senate subcommittee in Washington, Adm. T.H. Moorer, the new chief of naval operations, expressed agreement with other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff that the "air campaign against North Vietnam is now being prosecuted in an effective manner."

Cambodia meanwhile informed the U.N. Security Council that its forces killed two South Vietnamese soldiers who crossed its border on July 28.

On the political front, President Johnson named a delegation of 20 governors, senators, mayors, labor leaders, clergymen and other prominent Americans to come to Vietnam to observe the presidential campaign and the election Sept. 3.

For Use In Emergencies

Council At Midland OK's New Special Police Unit

An ordinance creating a special police corps for Midland was adopted when the Midland Borough Council met Wednesday night at the Borough Building.

The corps will be created for the welfare and safety of citizens of Midland, and would be called to duty in time of any disaster or emergency except labor disturbances, authorities said.

The ordinance empowers Mayor Eli G. Corak to nominate acceptable persons as special police. They will be sworn in by the Mayor, and will serve when he calls upon them.

Any person who is a citizen and who is free of convictions of subversive activities or involvement in subversive activities against the government may be eligible to serve in the special police corps. Those selected will have the same power to enforce the law as regular police when called upon and will receive renumeration at the decision of Council.

In other business Robert E. Tudek, vice president and general manager of Centre Video of State College, locally known as Steele Valley Cablevision of Midland, and Henry V. Kemp, regional manager, reported on the progress of bringing cable television into Midland.

Tudek said the company plans to begin work by sometime next week, and the project should be completed in about five weeks. The company's request for an antenna site on borough property was turned over to the property committee and Atty. Frank Suffoletta, solicitor, for study and with the power to act in leasing the property.

Tudek said the firm's office in Midland will open next week. A clerk has been hired to work in the office. The company will initiate their sales program by Sept. 1. He said a delay in operation has been caused by the difficulty in locating an antenna site in Midland, so the appeal was made to Council for the company to lease a piece of Borough property.

Kemp of Center Township works out of the regional headquarters in Ambridge.

Mayor Corak proclaimed the week of Sept. 10 "Good Human Relations Week," and reported that the Mayor's Commission on Human Relations will hold its third anniversary luncheon Sept. 11 at the Crucible Management Club at Industry.

Council and the Mayor will participate in groundbreaking ceremonies Sept. 8 at 11 a.m. when the Midland Water Authority will begin work on laying new water lines along 4th St. and Virginia Ave. as part of a $342,000 water system expansion project now under way. Representatives of the state Economic Development office will be present.

Council reported the records of the Midland Borough Income Tax office had been audited and found to be in satisfactory shape. On Aug. 1 the Midland jail received its second annual inspection by the Pennsylvania Department of Justice and was approved.

In response to a request from the Shippingport Borough Council, Council approved police cooperation between the two boroughs and use of the Midland Jail by Shippingport Borough if needed.

Councilmen were authorized to attend an annual meeting of the Beaver County Planning and Zoning Commission Sept. 21 at 6 p.m. at the General Broadhead Hotel in Beaver Falls; the Beaver County Boroughs Association Sept. 26 at 6 p.m. at the St. Anthony Club at Midland when Milton J. William Vinovich Sr., presided, and as chairman of the Veterans' Memorial Pool committee, announced the pool will close for the season on the evening of Sept. 4.

H also advised that "two hour parking" signs on Railroad Lane between 7th St. and 8th St. should be replaced with "no parking" signs because shopper parking is congesting the area so traffic cannot pass through quickly.

Vinovich on behalf of Council apologized to the First National Bank of Midland for erroneously mentioning the bank's name in connection with junk cars situated near the bank. After investigation the cars were found to be located on property adjacent to bank property.

General bills totaling $12,419 were approved for payment.

Council will meet again on Sept. 13 at 8 p.m.

Both Supporters, Critics Of War

20 Will Be Sent By LBJ To Observe Viet Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters and critics of the Vietnam war are among 20 prominent Americans President Johnson is sending to observe South Vietnam's presidential election.

The observers—including clergymen, labor leaders, businessmen and politicians—who commented said they will arrive in South Vietnam with open minds and report what they see openly and frankly.

In essence, said George Christian, presidential press secretary, they have been asked "to share an experience with the South Vietnamese people . . . They are not going there to supervise."

Although they will not be asked to prepare formal reports, Christian said, the travelers will not be restricted in what they can see or what they can say later.

The U.S. delegation, chosen in response to an invitation by the South Vietnamese government, leaves Monday aboard a U.S. military plane and returns about Spt. 6. Expenses will be paid by the government. The voting is Sept. 3.

The delegation's selection comes less than two weeks after congressional leaders rejected an invitation to send official poll watchers on the grounds it might leave the United States open to charges by the losers of rigging the election.

In Saigon, the American acceptance was welcomed by Tran Van Do, South Vietnamese foreign minister. He said the governments of Japan, New Zealand, Greece, Belgium, the Philippines, and Laos also will send observers.

Invitations were sent, he said, to all nations with whom his country maintains diplomatic relations as well as civic groups and other private organizations. Newsmen from free nations will be welcome to observe the election process, he said.

"It will, of course," Do said, "make a lot of work for us, but we welcome it. These people will be able to go all over the country and see what they ... to."

The observation process is "going to be a little difficult in a country at war," said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, one of the U.S. observers. "The election is being held under very difficult circumstances."

"I presume the President acted in response to questions raised about prospective irregularities in the elections," said Sen. Bourke D. Hickenlooper, R-Ohio, another of those chosen.

John S. Knight, publisher of Knight newspapers, said he doesn't know why Johnson selected him to make the trip because he has opposed American involvement in Vietnam since 1954. "I'll see as much as possible about what is going on then report it," he said.

L. Eldon James of Hampton, Va., former American Legion commander, said he hopes to get into the hamlets as well as the big cities and "put a finger on the pulse of voters."

Rather Wear Out Than Rust Out

Ohio Woman Farms 313 Acres, Drives Steel Rig

PARIS, Ohio (AP) — Martha Henrich, 22 and single, has two jobs. Neither requires nail polish or a fancy hair-do.

Martha farms 313 acres practically by herself during the summer. When things slow down in the winter, she drives a tractor - trailer and hauls steel around the country.

"Id rather wear out than rust out sitting around," she said.

Martha operates a 138 - acre farm owned by her grand mother and an additional 175 leased acres about 10 miles east of Canton in Stark County.

She started raising horses at 15, entered the cattle business three years ago and now turns out about 300 head a year, which she sells at auction and to local dealers.

Her only help is a part-time hired hand who assists with the chores when there are too many in one day.

"Beef cattle is my primary business," said the tall, slender Miss Henrich. "Horses are fun and an interesting hobby, but not really profitable."

About the truck driving job? "I've seen no disrespect from men despite my competing with them," she said. "I try to act like a lady and that usually results in even rough, tough truck drivers treating me like a lady."

In case of trouble, Martha adds:

"But I can split skulls with a tire iron if I have to."

Marriage and romance?

"I like interesting and knowledgeable men for dates, but the farm comes first," she said. "The man I marry would have to be ambitious and interested in agriculture. He wouldn't have to be handsome."

Martha has definite future plans.

"I hope to develop a similar but much larger operation in the South in a few years," she said. "In Virginia, I could reduce costs, have mild winters and make a better profit."

Taxpayers Pay $1 Million Per Week To Aid Cuba Exiles

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — U.S. taxpayers are paying more than $1 million each week to help a seemingly endless stream of Cuban refugees start life anew in this country.

Total expenditures in the program have climbed to hundreds of millions of dollars, officials say.

A Cuban Refugee Center spokesman called it "one of the finest investments in humanitarianism." He said the migration is the most extended in U.S. history.

The number of Cuban exiles who have reached the United States since Fidel Castro's takeover in 1959 is estimated at nearly 400,000. About half live in Miami, the rest are scattered throughout the United States.

Some 80,000 Cubans have arrived by daily airlift established Dec. 1, 1965. Two planeloads of refugees come each weekday. Each flight costs U.S. taxpayers $850.

And thousands of Cubans have sneaked out of their country by boat and headed across "death corridor," as exiles call the waters between the Communist island and Florida. The Coast Guard reported it has rescued 13,450 refugees in these straits. The number rescued ranged from nine in 1959 to 5,730 in 1965.

This year's appropriations for the refugee center, operated by the Health, Education and Welfare Department, total $51 million. This compares with $1 million daily the Soviet Union reportedly spends to maintain the regime from which the refugees flee. Since its establishment in 1961, refugee center expenditures are estimated at $300 million. In addition, the refugee situation has meant expenditure of other millions by the Coast Guard, Immigration Service, customs, law-enforcement bodies and other agencies. Maintenance of a State Department Cuban affairs office here costs $60,000 annually.

The refugee center, which previously spent large sums on supporting refugees in Miami, has shifted emphasis on their resettlement to other cities where they can find employment. Only 14,000, considered unemployable, remain on Florida welfare rolls, as against a 70,000 peak in 1962.

117th State Fair Opens In Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The sun rose today on the 117th annual Ohio State Fair, the biggest Buckeye exposition ever.

The exposition grounds — 360 acres of attractions for the young and old — began to hum with visitors shortly after the fair was opened officially at 6 a.m.

Fair Manager E. J. Keirns predicts that 1.8 million people will pass through the turnstiles before the exposition closes Labor Day. The fair had more than 1.5 million visitors last year.

And along with the new attractions, some of the old favorites have returned this year.

The 300-member All-Ohio Boys Band is back, the 300-voice Ohio State Fair Youth Choir which took its third European tour this summer and the All-Ohio Youth Symphony are on hand.

And what is billed as the world's largest junior fair—6,000 exhibits housed in the 52,000-square-foot Lausche Building — awaits visitors.

Ohioans and out-of-staters attending the fair will also find a big list of free entertainment programs boasting some of the nation's top stars.

Pat Boone, movie and singing personality, joins the Sandpipers, a young and highly popular recording group for today's top billing.

NEW CUMBERLAND — William J. Kincaid, 39, of Pittsburgh was cited on a charge of driving left of center at 12:05 a. m. today after a collision on Route 2 south of New Cumberland that damaged his 1967 auto and a 1967 model convertible driven by Ruby S. Boulden, 48, of Winston - Salem, N. C. Hancock County deputies, who investigated, said damage to the two vehicles totaled $450.

White Suburbs Seen As Cure To Riots In Slums

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cure to ills that sparked summer riots in Negro slums lies in the nation's overwhelmingly while suburbs—but suburbanites aren't likely to help right now, says the new U.S. deputy attorney general.

Warren M.. Christopher, 41, the Justice Department's No. 2 man, said in an intrview that white suburbanites may show their fear and anger over the Negro riots by blocking efforts to clear up big city problems.

Although he predicted suburbanites eventually will "overcome fear and prejudice," he said their initial reaction to the riots will be to reject necessary closer ties with Negro inner city neighborhoods. Suburbanites, he said, probably will reject pleas for more money needed for new schools, hospitals and transportation.

Christopher, formerly a Los Angeles lawyer, was vice chairman of a commission that investigated 1965 rioting in that city's Watts section. He also was the top-ranking Justice Department official on the scene during last month's Detroit riots.

Christopher conceded the riots may show some very short term benefits for those in Negro slums.

But, he said, "the setbacks will far outnumber the steps taken to ameliorate the situation thereafter. The fear instilled in the white community —the bitterness—is just incalculable in terms of the harm it does."

Hancock Firefighters Slate 'Rescue School'

The Hancock County Firefighters Association has scheduled a "rescue school" for Oct. 14-15 and Oct. 21-22.

Gale Ash and Bill Prosser reported on a meeting of the State Firemen's Association Aug. 10-12 at McMechen. The date and site of the next meeting will be announced.

Both Supporters, Critics Of War

20 Will Be Sent By LBJ To Observe Viet Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters and critics of the Vietnam war are among 20 prominent Americans President Johnson is sending to observe South Vietnam's presidential election.

The observers—including clergymen, labor leaders, businessmen and politicians—who commented said they will arrive in South Vietnam with open minds and report what they see openly and frankly.

In essence, said George Christian, presidential press secretary, they have been asked "to share an experience with the South Vietnamese people ... They are not going there to supervise."

Although they will not be asked to prepare formal reports, Christian said, the travelers will not be restricted in what they can see or what they can say later.

The U.S. delegation, chosen in response to an invitation by the South Vietnamese government, leaves Monday aboard a U.S. military plane and returns about Spt. 6. Expenses will be paid by the government. The voting is Sept. 3.

The delegation's selection comes less than two weeks after congressional leaders rejected an invitation to send official poll watchers on the grounds it might leave the United States open to charges by the losers of rigging the election.

In Saigon, the American acceptance was welcomed by Tran Van Do, South Vietnamese foreign minister. He said the governments of Japan, New Zealand, Greece, Belgium, the Philippines, and Laos also will send observers.

Invitations were sent, he said, to all nations with whom his country maintains diplomatic relations as well as civic groups and other private organizations. Newsmen from free nations will be welcome to observe the election process, he said.

"It will, of course," Do said, "make a lot of work for us, but we welcome it. These people will be able to go all over the country and see what they want to."

The observation process is "going to be a little difficult in a country at war," said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, one of the U.S. observers. "The election is being held under very difficult circumstances."

"I presume the President acted in response to questions raised about prospective irregularities in the elections," said Sen. Bourke D. Hickenlooper, R-Ohio, another of those chosen.

John S. Knight, publisher of Knight newspapers, said he doesn't know why Johnson selected him to make the trip because he has opposed American involvement in Vietnam since 1954. "I'll see as much as possible about what is going on then report it," he said.

L. Eldon James of Hampton, Va., former American Legion commander, said he hopes to get into the hamlets as well as the big cities and "put a finger on the pulse of voters."

Rather Wear Out Than Rust Out

Ohio Woman Farms 313 Acres, Drives Steel Rig

PARIS, Ohio (AP) — Martha Henrich, 22 and single, has two jobs. Neither requires nail polish or a fancy hair-do.

Martha farms 313 acres practically by herself during the summer. When things slow down in the winter, she drives a tractor - trailer and hauls steel around the country.

"Id rather wear out than rust out sitting around," she said.

Martha operates a 138 - acre farm owned by her grand mother and an additional 175 leased acres about 10 miles east of Canton in Stark County.

She started raising horses at 15, entered the cattle business three years ago and now turns out about 300 head a year, which she sells at auction and to local dealers.

Her only help is a part-time hired hand who assists with the chores when there are too many in one day.

"Beef cattle is my primary business," said the tall, slender Miss Henrich. "Horses are fun and an interesting hobby, but not really profitable."

About the truck driving job?

"I've seen no disrespect from men despite my competing with them," she said. "I try to act like a lady and that usually results in even rough, tough truck drivers treating me like a lady."

In case of trouble, Martha adds:

"But I can split skulls with a tire iron if I have to."

Marriage and romance?

"I like interesting and knowledgeable men for dates, but the farm comes first," she said. "The man I marry would have to be ambitious and interested in agriculture. He wouldn't have to be handsome."

Martha has definite future plans.

"I hope to develop a similar but much larger operation in the South in a few years," she said. "In Virginia, I could reduce costs, have mild winters and make a better profit."

Taxpayers Pay $1 Million Per Week To Aid Cuba Exiles

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — U.S. taxpayers are paying more than $1 million each week to help a seemingly endless stream of Cuban refugees start life anew in this country.

Total expenditures in the program have climbed to hundreds of millions of dollars, officials say.

A Cuban Refugee Center spokesman called it "one of the finest investments in humanitarianism." He said the migration is the most extended in U.S. history.

The number of Cuban exiles who have reached the United States since Fidel Castro's takeover in 1959 is estimated at nearly 400,000. About half live in Miami, the rest are scattered throughout the United States.

Some 80,000 Cubans have arrived by daily airlift established Dec. 1, 1965. Two planeloads of refugees come each weekday. Each flight costs U.S. taxpayers $850.

And thousands of Cubans have sneaked out of their country by boat and headed across "death corridor," as exiles call the waters between the Communist island and Florida. The Coast Guard reported it has rescued 13,450 refugees in these straits. The number rescued ranged from nine in 1959 to 5,730 in 1965.

This year's appropriations for the refugee center, operated by the Health, Education and Welfare Department, total $51 million. This compares with $1 million daily the Soviet Union reportedly spends to maintain the regime from which the refugees flee. Since its establishment in 1961, refugee center expenditures are estimated at $300 million. In addition, the refugee situation has meant expenditure of other millions by the Coast Guard, Immigration Service, customs, law-enforcement bodies and other agencies. Maintenance of a State Department Cuban affairs office here costs $60,000 annually.

The refugee center, which previously spent large sums on supporting refugees in Miami, has shifted emphasis on their resettlement to other cities where they can find employment. Only 14,000, considered unemployable, remain on Florida welfare rolls, as against a 70,000 peak in 1962.

Among Labor Committee Democrats

Furor Raised In Attack On Antipoverty Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) —A secret Johnson administration memorandum attacking sharply the $5.2 billion antipoverty bill drafted by a Senate Labor subcommittee is causing a furor among Labor Committee Democrats.

—Removal of a special $3 billion emergency job program for slum dwellers attached to the bill by subcommittee Chairman Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa.

—Detention of a requirement that the Office of Economic Opportunity disclose the projected five-year cost of the antipoverty program. The memo said "this would create political problems for the administration in an election year."

—Scrapping of a special $105 million item to finance a slum job program backed by Sens. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. The memo said "this will invite slashing amendments on the floor and will seriously affect passage of the legislation."

The memo said Johnson particularly was exercised about the subcommittee revisions because "the President has spent more time on the language in this bill personally than he has on any other domestic legislation that has been sent to the Congress this year."

The memo was discussed at a closed meeting of the full Labor Committee earlier this week.

Clark declined to discuss the matter but a newsmen obtained the memo from other sources, who gave this picture of the furor:

The memo was drafted in OEO after a meeting in the White House office of Joseph A. Califano Jr., special assistant to the President. The meeting was held after the subcommittee approved its version of the antipoverty bill.

Copies were sent to all Democrats on the committee except Clark. The White House said later Clark was omitted by mistake and it had apologized to the Pennsylvanian.

Clark quickly learned about the memo and read it at the committee session Monday.

Some Democrats on hand denounced the administration's handling of the matter as "stupid" and said their reaction was to support the subcommittee bill.

The subcommittee bill authorized $2.2 billion for a one-year extension of the controversial program, $148 million more than Johnson asked.

But it also tied to the bill Clark's proposal, growing out of this summer's riots. For a $3 billion emergency program.

Clark said in an interview he was not surprised at the President's rejection of this program. It was inevitable because of the budget stringency resulting from the Vietnamese war, he said. Clark opposes U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Continuance Granted For Driver's Hearing

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today granted a continuance until Monday in the case of George L. Hubbard, 23, of 808 Washington Ave., Wellsville, charged with operating an auto with an expired temporary registration tag.

Hubbard was cited Wednesday at 8:25 p. m. on Walnut St. by Patrolman David Mumaw. The 10-day tag on his auto expired Tuesday, officers said. Hubbard was given the continuance to allow him to obtain registration plates.

The judge set an indefinite continuance in the case of Janet E. Ryckman, 24, of 3289 St. Clair Ave., cited Aug. 13 by the Ohio Highway Patrol on a charge of failure to yield the right-of-way in making a left turn. The patrol said her auto was involved in a collision with a motorcycle on the Calcutta-Smiths Ferry Rd. The judge said the hearing date may be set by agreement between the arresting officer and Robert A. Kapp, counsel for Miss Ryckman.

Brakes Fail On Hill, Auto Slams Into Rig

The brakes failed on a 1959 sedan operated by Mrs. Gail D. Shriver of 126 Knollwood Dr., Meadowbrook Estates, Industry, Wednesday at 9:14 a. m. as she descended the 3rd St. hill, causing her car to collide with a truck at 3rd St. and Midland Ave.

Mrs. Shriver's car struck a tractor - trailer rig owned by the Berman Leasing Co. of South Kearney, N.Y., and operated by Arthur I. McCall of Baisley Park, N. Y. The rig, traveling west, received damage to the right front tire, fuel tank and right rear tire. Damage to Mrs. Shriver's car was approximately $200.

Midland police said there were no injuries.

Among Labor Committee Democrats

Furor Raised In Attack On Antipoverty Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) —A secret Johnson administration memorandum attacking sharply the $5.2 billion antipoverty bill drafted by a Senate Labor subcommittee is causing a furor among Labor Committee Democrats.

—Removal of a special $3 billion emergency job program for slum dwellers attached to the bill by subcommittee Chairman Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa.

—Detention of a requirement that the Office of Economic Opportunity disclose the projected five-year cost of the antipoverty program. The memo said "this would create political problems for the administration in an election year."

—Scrapping of a special $105 million item to finance a slum job program backed by Sens. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. The memo said "this will invite slashing amendments on the floor and will seriously affect passage of the legislation."

The memo said Johnson particularly was exercised about the subcommittee revisions because "the President has spent more time on the language in this bill personally than he has on any other domestic legislation that has been sent to the Congress this year."

The memo was discussed at a closed meeting of the full Labor Committee earlier this week.

Clark declined to discuss the matter but a newsmen obtained the memo from other sources, who gave this picture of the furor:

The memo was drafted in OEO after a meeting in the White House office of Joseph A. Califano Jr., special assistant to the President. The meeting was held after the subcommittee approved its version of the antipoverty bill.

Copies were sent to all Democrats on the committee except Clark. The White House said later Clark was omitted by mistake and it had apologized to the Pennsylvanian.

Clark quickly learned about the memo and read it at the committee session Monday.

Some Democrats on hand denounced the administration's handling of the matter as "stupid" and said their reaction was to support the subcommittee bill.

The subcommittee bill authorized $2.2 billion for a one-year extension of the controversial program, $148 million more than Johnson asked.

But it also tied to the bill Clark's proposal, growing out of this summer's riots. For a $3 billion emergency program.

Clark said in an interview he was not surprised at the President's rejection of this program. It was inevitable because of the budget stringency resulting from the Vietnamese war, he said. Clark opposes U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Continuance Granted For Driver's Hearing

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today granted a continuance until Monday in the case of George L. Hubbard, 23, of 808 Washington Ave., Wellsville, charged with operating an auto with an expired temporary registration tag.

Hubbard was cited Wednesday at 8:25 p. m. on Walnut St. by Patrolman David Mumaw. The 10-day tag on his auto expired Tuesday, officers said. Hubbard was given the continuance to allow him to obtain registration plates.

The judge set an indefinite continuance in the case of Janet E. Ryckman, 24, of 3289 St. Clair Ave., cited Aug. 13 by the Ohio Highway Patrol on a charge of failure to yield the right-of-way in making a left turn. The patrol said her auto was involved in a collision with a motorcycle on the Calcutta-Smiths Ferry Rd. The judge said the hearing date may be set by agreement between the arresting officer and Robert A. Kapp, counsel for Miss Ryckman.

Brakes Fail On Hill, Auto Slams Into Rig

The brakes failed on a 1959 sedan operated by Mrs. Gail D. Shriver of 126 Knollwood Dr., Meadowbrook Estates, Industry, Wednesday at 9:14 a. m. as she descended the 3rd St. hill, causing her car to collide with a truck at 3rd St. and Midland Ave.

Mrs. Shriver's car struck a tractor - trailer rig owned by the Berman Leasing Co. of South Kearney, N.Y., and operated by Arthur I. McCall of Baisley Park, N. Y. The rig, traveling west, received damage to the right front tire, fuel tank and right rear tire. Damage to Mrs. Shriver's car was approximately $200.

Midland police said there were no injuries.

In 2½-Year Air Campaign

U.S. Planes Have Bombed 225 Key Targets In North

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon disclosed that American planes have bombed more than 225 key military targets in sensitive areas of North Vietnam during the 2½-year air campaign.

Many of these have been authorized personally by President Johnson, acting on recommendations from the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The President, it is understood, has approved the great bulk of more than 300-plus targets sent by the military leaders for his okay.

The Joint Chiefs laid out these targets for the President's consideration because they were situated in populated zones where civilian casualties might be heavy, near Red China's border where dangerous overflights might occur, or in major ports where Soviet ships might be damaged.

North Vietnam reportdly has some 18,000 potential targets.

Of these, 5,000 are said to be worth hitting and the great majority have been struck at the time and choosing of Adm. U.S. Grant Sharpe, Pacific commander-in-chief.

The White House came under severe criticism in recent weeks, particularly from House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, for what was said to be overly tight restrictions on the bombing.

In the past month the administration has expanded the approved target list to allow strikes within 10 miles of China's border and has given military leaders greater leeway in bombing in and around the capital city of Hanoi.

Dfense officials insisted last week the loosening up in bombing was a logical evolution of the air campaign and not a result of Ford's criticism.

In response to questions, the Pentagon provided a breakdown of the types of key targets which have been attacked by Air Force, Navy and Marine aircraft since the bombing began in February 1965. These include:

—More than 50 barracks, more than 50 bridges and more than 50 surface-to-air missile sites.

—More than 20 supply depots.

—More than 15 Army depots.

—More than 10 petroleum, oil and lubricants storage sites, more than 10 power plants and more than 10 ferries.

—More than five maritime ports and more than five air fields.

In addition, the Pentagon said, there have been numbers of raids against railroad yards and shops, munitions plants, iron and steel factories, cement plants, naval bases, communications installations and radar sites.

Because of North Vietnam's ability to snap back with quick repairs or replacements, most targets require continual assaults.

To date North Vietnam, with more than 7,000 antiaircraft guns and missiles, has brought down more than 650 American war planes worth more than $1 billion.

Despite the cost, top military officers have paraded before Congress in recent days to attest to the value of the bombing campaign.

At the Pentagon, however, an officer who declined to permit use of his name, compared the target list with the aircraft loss and declared: "Its a national disgrace, what we're paying to hit those things."

There are some notable targets recommended by the Joint Chiefs which the President has refused to authorize for bombing.

Docking facilities at three major port areas—Haiphong, Cam Pha and Hon Gai—currently are immune to attack because Soviet or Chinese charter ships often are loading or unloading there.

U.S. planes have kept away from Gia Lam and Phuc Yen, major air fields near Hanoi, and Cat Bi, outside Haiphong.

Salem Seeks Legal Bars In Strike Threat

LISBON — The City of Salem has taken legal action to forestall a strike vote by city employes.

A petition filed Wednesday in Common Pleas Court asks a temporary order restraining the Northeastern Ohio Public Employes District Council 18 of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, from carrying out its threat to take a strike vote today if the city does not recognize the union as bargaining agent for its employes.

According to the petition, the mayor and president of Salem City Council on Aug. 18 received a telegram from John Kelly, director of District Council 18. It reads:

"If a meeting is not established by Thursday, Aug. 24, for the purpose of recognizing Northeastern Ohio Public Employes District Council No. 18 as bargaining agent for the City of Salem employes, a strike vote will be taken at a special meeting on that date."

No date has been set for a hearing of the city's petition. The Courthouse was closed this afternoon for the County Fair and will be again Friday afternoon. The sheriff's office this morning completed typing the summons for service on Kelly and several employes of the city.

'A JOKE' is what Soviet news sources called it when the owner of this robot, Oleg Sokol, put the mechanical cop to work at an intersection in Arkhangelsk, U.S.S.R. In view of the presence of the Russian circus that had just come to town, featuring the robot, could it also have been a slightly capitalistic promotional stunt as well?

Kapp Assured Victory In Solicitor's Election

J. Michael Kapp's election as city solicitor was assured Wednesday afternoon when the Republican party failed to certify the name of a new candidate to the County Election Board to take the ballot place vacated by the withdrawal of Charles Lang, nominee in the May primary.

Kapp, the Democratic nominee, will be listed by himself on the Nov. 7 general election ballot. Ohio law permits write-ins at a primary, but not at a general election if the number of candidates for a post equals the number of jobs to be filled.

Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper, also a Democrat, did not run for a new term. Kapp is associated with his father, Robert A. Kapp, in the law firm of Kapp & Kapp. Yesterday was the deadline for the GOP to fill the vacancy created when Lang quit the race after being named trust officer of the First National Bank.

House Votes Year Limit For Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration leaders in the House hope to rally their forces after suffering an initial setback in voting on the foreign aid bill.

Attempts to cut the $2.5 billion economic assistance portion of the aid bill were scheduled today after Republicans and Southern Democrats succeeded Wednesday in limiting the program to one year.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee had voted to authorize the aid program for two years, approving $3.1 billion for the current fiscal year and adding nearly $3.6 billion for fiscal 1969.

But the House, by a nonrecord vote of 129 to 116, eliminated the second year from the bill Wednesday as the final voting started after three days of debate. Although many Southerners left the floor before the vote, about 20 joined the almost solid rank of Republicans in supporting the amendment by Rep. E. Ross Adair, R-Ind.

The action is subject to possible reversal on a roll call after the amendment process is completed, probably late today. Leaders hope to complete action on the bill, the last important measure scheduled for House consideration before the 10-day Labor Day recess starting next Thursday.

The House committee only cut the administration's $3.4 billion aid request by $219 million, while the Senate Foreign Relations Committee whacked off $737 million and the full Senate trimmed another $100 million.

The Senate, however, cut the administration's $596 million military aid request to $391 million, while the House committee gave the administration everything it wanted.

Area Motorist Cited When Car Runs Wild

Mary B. Todd, 50, of Lisbon RD 1 was cited for speeding Wednesday by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon after her car ran off the Old Steubenville Rd. south of Lisbon and hit a tree.

Officers said she was headed south and apparently fell asleep, with her 1960 sedan veering off the west side of the roadway.

The car crossed a yard and knocked a piece of wood against a house trailer owned by Paul Rankin of Lisbon RD 4, then rammed a tree.

She was uninjured, officers said. The mishap occurred at 12:05 a.m.

William J. Kincaid, 39, of 1138 Arkansas Ave., Pittsburgh, was cited for driving "left of center in the face of oncoming traffic" when his auto struck a northbound car driven by Ruby S. Bouldin, 48, of 2231 Independence Rd., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Damage to the Kincaid auto was about $250 and the Bouldin auto received about $200 worth of damage, authorities said.

In 2½-Year Air Campaign

U.S. Planes Have Bombed 225 Key Targets In North

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon disclosed that American planes have bombed more than 225 key military targets in sensitive areas of North Vietnam during the 2½-year air campaign.

Many of these have been authorized personally by President Johnson, acting on recommendations from the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The President, it is understood, has approved the great bulk of more than 300-plus targets sent by the military leaders for his okay.

The Joint Chiefs laid out these targets for the President's consideration because they were situated in populated zones where civilian casualties might be heavy, near Red China's border where dangerous overflights might occur, or in major ports where Soviet ships might be damaged.

North Vietnam reportdly has some 18,000 potential targets.

Of these, 5,000 are said to be worth hitting and the great majority have been struck at the time and choosing of Adm. U.S. Grant Sharpe, Pacific commander-in-chief.

The White House came under severe criticism in recent weeks, particularly from House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, for what was said to be overly tight restrictions on the bombing.

In the past month the administration has expanded the approved target list to allow strikes within 10 miles of China's border and has given military leaders greater leeway in bombing in and around the capital city of Hanoi.

Dfense officials insisted last week the loosening up in bombing was a logical evolution of the air campaign and not a result of Ford's criticism.

In response to questions, the Pentagon provided a breakdown of the types of key targets which have been attacked by Air Force, Navy and Marine aircraft since the bombing began in February 1965. These include:

—More than 50 barracks, more than 50 bridges and more than 50 surface-to-air missile sites.

—More than 20 supply depots.

—More than 15 Army depots.

—More than 10 petroleum, oil and lubricants storage sites, more than 10 power plants and more than 10 ferries.

—More than five maritime ports and more than five air fields.

In addition, the Pentagon said, there have been numbers of raids against railroad yards and shops, munitions plants, iron and steel factories, cement plants, naval bases, communications installations and radar sites.

Because of North Vietnam's ability to snap back with quick repairs or replacements, most targets require continual assaults.

To date North Vietnam, with more than 7,000 antiaircraft guns and missiles, has brought down more than 650 American war planes worth more than $1 billion.

Despite the cost, top military officers have paraded before Congress in recent days to attest to the value of the bombing campaign.

At the Pentagon, however, an officer who declined to permit use of his name, compared the target list with the aircraft loss and declared: "Its a national disgrace, what we're paying to hit those things."

There are some notable targets recommended by the Joint Chiefs which the President has refused to authorize for bombing.

Docking facilities at three major port areas—Haiphong, Cam Pha and Hon Gai—currently are immune to attack because Soviet or Chinese charter ships often are loading or unloading there.

U.S. planes have kept away from Gia Lam and Phuc Yen, major air fields near Hanoi, and Cat Bi, outside Haiphong.

Salem Seeks Legal Bars In Strike Threat

LISBON — The City of Salem has taken legal action to forestall a strike vote by city employes.

A petition filed Wednesday in Common Pleas Court asks a temporary order restraining the Northeastern Ohio Public Employes District Council 18 of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, from carrying out its threat to take a strike vote today if the city does not recognize the union as bargaining agent for its employes.

According to the petition, the mayor and president of Salem City Council on Aug. 18 received a telegram from John Kelly, director of District Council 18. It reads:

"If a meeting is not established by Thursday, Aug. 24, for the purpose of recognizing Northeastern Ohio Public Employes District Council No. 18 as bargaining agent for the City of Salem employes, a strike vote will be taken at a special meeting on that date."

No date has been set for a hearing of the city's petition. The Courthouse was closed this afternoon for the County Fair and will be again Friday afternoon. The sheriff's office this morning completed typing the summons for service on Kelly and several employes of the city.

'A JOKE' is what Soviet news sources called it when the owner of this robot, Oleg Sokol, put the mechanical cop to work at an intersection in Arkhangelsk, U.S.S.R. In view of the presence of the Russian circus that had just come to town, featuring the robot, could it also have been a slightly capitalistic promotional stunt as well?

Kapp Assured Victory In Solicitor's Election

J. Michael Kapp's election as city solicitor was assured Wednesday afternoon when the Republican party failed to certify the name of a new candidate to the County Election Board to take the ballot place vacated by the withdrawal of Charles Lang, nominee in the May primary.

Kapp, the Democratic nominee, will be listed by himself on the Nov. 7 general election ballot. Ohio law permits write-ins at a primary, but not at a general election if the number of candidates for a post equals the number of jobs to be filled.

Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper, also a Democrat, did not run for a new term. Kapp is associated with his father, Robert A. Kapp, in the law firm of Kapp & Kapp. Yesterday was the deadline for the GOP to fill the vacancy created when Lang quit the race after being named trust officer of the First National Bank.

House Votes Year Limit For Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration leaders in the House hope to rally their forces after suffering an initial setback in voting on the foreign aid bill.

Attempts to cut the $2.5 billion economic assistance portion of the aid bill were scheduled today after Republicans and Southern Democrats succeeded Wednesday in limiting the program to one year.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee had voted to authorize the aid program for two years, approving $3.1 billion for the current fiscal year and adding nearly $3.6 billion for fiscal 1969.

But the House, by a nonrecord vote of 129 to 116, eliminated the second year from the bill Wednesday as the final voting started after three days of debate. Although many Southerners left the floor before the vote, about 20 joined the almost solid rank of Republicans in supporting the amendment by Rep. E. Ross Adair, R-Ind.

The action is subject to possible reversal on a roll call after the amendment process is completed, probably late today. Leaders hope to complete action on the bill, the last important measure scheduled for House consideration before the 10-day Labor Day recess starting next Thursday.

The House committee only cut the administration's $3.4 billion aid request by $219 million, while the Senate Foreign Relations Committee whacked off $737 million and the full Senate trimmed another $100 million.

The Senate, however, cut the administration's $596 million military aid request to $391 million, while the House committee gave the administration everything it wanted.

Area Motorist Cited When Car Runs Wild

Mary B. Todd, 50, of Lisbon RD 1 was cited for speeding Wednesday by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon after her car ran off the Old Steubenville Rd. south of Lisbon and hit a tree.

Officers said she was headed south and apparently fell asleep, with her 1960 sedan veering off the west side of the roadway.

The car crossed a yard and knocked a piece of wood against a house trailer owned by Paul Rankin of Lisbon RD 4, then rammed a tree.

She was uninjured, officers said. The mishap occurred at 12:05 a.m.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: The best way to clean finger marks from white plaster walls (especially around the telephone is to keep a bottle of liquid white shoe polish handy.

When the spots appear, just use the sponge inside the bottle of polish to wipe the soil away. This is guaranteed to save you a few paint jobs!

PATRICIA HARRIS.

Well, well. It works.

I did find that the polish was better if diluted with water, or if you put the polish on a damp sponge and rub away. Sure covers up those marks.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: This is for mothers with curious toddlers who love opening kitchen cabinet doors.

Try using metal shower curtain hooks linked together.

They work fine where two doors meet, and can be opened and closed easily by an adult, but not by a toddler.

JEAN CORDUCCI.

DEAR HELOISE: I just can't let you go through life thinking that a piece of cellophane tape is the easiest way to sort graduated beads.

Try opening up a large magazine (or catalogue) that will lie flat when open. Then use the valley at the binding to sort and rearrange into graduated order. Sure beats using tape 'cause you don't have to stick and unstick 'em.

A FRIEND.

You're right, Friend, this is another good way. Thanks. Just so the beads don't roll out the "valley" and you have to start all over again!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I put a square of nylon net in the bottom of a flower pot and weight it down with the customary broken pot pieces or rocks.

When covered with potting soil, it prevents undue leakage of soil.

NAOMI CARLYON.

DEAR HELOISE: My husband simply loves potatoes in the half-shell with cheese on top, which we all know is a great deal of trouble to fix.

Now I have found an easier way to do this.

I whip leftover mashed or cubed potatoes with butter, milk and salt, put the mixture in a small buttered aluminum pie pan and sprinkle it with any kind of cheese (pimento is a favorite). Bake until the cheese is melted and the potatoes are steaming and top with a sprig of parsley.

This is fabulous for using up leftover potatoes if you're tired of potato cakes.

BICKI.

DEAR HELOISE: I use to ruin more pairs of stockings when I washed them than when I wore them.

But I found that by putting them in the toe of my daughter's heavy white socks, I could just throw them into even into the dryer.

They come out clean, with no snags or runs and the bathroom isn't cluttered up with dripping hose. In fact, I now have one of her odd socks set aside just for this use.

RITA MERLIS.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is an answer to "Dirty Gold" who wanted to know a way to clean gold of any type.

I work in the Restoration Laboratory of the Georgia Historical Commission and this is the best way we have found.

Gold in its pure form does not tarnish, but often we find articles of gold alloyed with copper and silver, both of which tarnish.

The main form of discoloration on gold, however, is caused by an accumulation of dust and soot.

The simplest and most effective way of cleaning gold is to wash it thoroughly with DILUTED household ammonia and water, rinse well, dry, and polish it with a soft cloth.

This method solves nearly all "dirt gold" problems.

Soviet 'Retaliatory Steps' To U.S. Bombing Discounted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet threat of possible "retaliatory steps" to intensified U.S. bombing of North Vietnam is discounted for now by a critic and a supporter of President Johnson's war policies.

The Soviets said in a statement Wednesday that what they called the latest U.S. escalation of the conflict will "inevitably lead to the necessary retaliatory steps." They didn't spell out the threat further.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee called it "a mild warning that none the less should be taken seriously." He has labeled the bombing of targets near the Red China border a "stupid" move, inviting Chinese intervention.

"I don't reach the conclusion from this that the Russians are about to intervene in the war," he said. "But it might be a straw indicating which way the wind is blowing."

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, senior Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, said in a separate interview he doubts anybody can guess the Soviet intentions.

"But they sound like they have before," said Hickenlooper, a backer of U.S. war policies. "I think this may be in the nature of an objection for the record to reassure their friends in North Vietnam."

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., said testimony of Adm. T. H. Moorer, chief of naval operations before his Senate preparedness subcommittee demonstrated how "critical and crucial" intensified bombing was to successful prosecution of the war.

But Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., said the air attacks are not "producing the desired results" of bringing the Communists to negotiating table.

Morton said he does not oppose the attacks on military targets near Red China and only hopes "the dividend is worth the risk involved."

"What disturbs me," he said, "is bombing right around the metropolitan areas of North Vietnam—Haiphong, Hanoi. Whether the civilians are hit or not, they see it, and this increases their morale and their will to resist."

Morton's views were aired on a National Educational Television program, "In My Opinion."

DEAR HELOISE: I use to ruin more pairs of stockings when I washed them than when I wore them.

But I found that by putting them in the toe of my daughter's heavy white socks, I could just throw them into even into the dryer.

They come out clean, with no snags or runs and the bathroom isn't cluttered up with dripping hose. In fact, I now have one of her odd socks set aside just for this use.

RITA MERLIS.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is an answer to "Dirty Gold" who wanted to know a way to clean gold of any type.

I work in the Restoration Laboratory of the Georgia Historical Commission and this is the best way we have found.

Gold in its pure form does not tarnish, but often we find articles of gold alloyed with copper and silver, both of which tarnish.

The main form of discoloration on gold, however, is caused by an accumulation of dust and soot.

The simplest and most effective way of cleaning gold is to wash it thoroughly with DILUTED household ammonia and water, rinse well, dry, and polish it with a soft cloth.

This method solves nearly all "dirt gold" problems.

Soviet 'Retaliatory Steps' To U.S. Bombing Discounted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet threat of possible "retaliatory steps" to intensified U.S. bombing of North Vietnam is discounted for now by a critic and a supporter of President Johnson's war policies.

The Soviets said in a statement Wednesday that what they called the latest U.S. escalation of the conflict will "inevitably lead to the necessary retaliatory steps." They didn't spell out the threat further.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee called it "a mild warning that none the less should be taken seriously." He has labeled the bombing of targets near the Red China border a "stupid" move, inviting Chinese intervention.

"I don't reach the conclusion from this that the Russians are about to intervene in the war," he said. "But it might be a straw indicating which way the wind is blowing."

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, senior Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, said in a separate interview he doubts anybody can guess the Soviet intentions.

"But they sound like they have before," said Hickenlooper, a backer of U.S. war policies. "I think this may be in the nature of an objection for the record to reassure their friends in North Vietnam."

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., said testimony of Adm. T. H. Moorer, chief of naval operations before his Senate preparedness subcommittee demonstrated how "critical and crucial" intensified bombing was to successful prosecution of the war.

But Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., said the air attacks are not "producing the desired results" of bringing the Communists to negotiating table.

Morton said he does not oppose the attacks on military targets near Red China and only hopes "the dividend is worth the risk involved."

"What disturbs me," he said, "is bombing right around the metropolitan areas of North Vietnam—Haiphong, Hanoi. Whether the civilians are hit or not, they see it, and this increases their morale and their will to resist."

Morton's views were aired on a National Educational Television program, "In My Opinion."

Thieu Keeps Up Boycott In Vietnam

RACH GIA, Vietnam (AP) — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu called off an appearance with the other presidential candidates at the last minute today, continuing his boycott of the official campaign tour.

Thieu's aides in Saigon said Wednesday night he would join the 10 civilian candidates today at Rach Gia, capital of Kien Giang Province next to Cambodia and an area where Viet Cong activities are rare.

It was the eighth stop on the tour of the countryside that the civilian candidates are making. About 2,000 persons crowded into a movie house in the center of the fishing and farming community.

A representative of Thieu and his vice presidential running mate, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, said the press of official business forced Thieu to cancel his plans to come to Rach Gia.

The election law says the candidates must campaign together or not campaign at all. Since Thieu and Ky have failed to join the other candidates in the 11-stop swing through the provinces, their opponents accuse them of campaigning illegally on their own. Thieu and Ky claim their frequent trips outside Saigon are "nonpolitical" and part of their official duties.

Probers Turn To New Filter Said To Be More Effective

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigating senators seeking a safer cigarette turned today to a new filter claimed by its sponsors to be far more effective than those now on the market.

A Senate Commerce subcommittee already has been advised that cigarette filters apparently reduce the rate of fatal lung cancer among smokers.

But they also have been told by cancer scientists that some of the filters now in use are ineffective, even worthless.

Inventor Robert L. Strickman said he couldn't even get into the offices of major U.S. tobacco companies when he tried to sell his new filter. So, Strickman said, he gave a half-interest to Columbia University.

Strickman and Columbia President Grayson Kirk were scheduled to appear today before the Commerce subcommittee investigating progress toward development of safer cigarettes.

A panel of cancer researchers told the subcommittee Wednesday the answer lies in part in filtration. Dr. George E. Moore, New York director of public health research, urged steps to cut the tar level of smoke to 15 milligrams a cigarette.

Under terms of the Strickman-Columbia filter project, cigarettes using the new filter could not have a tar content of more thas 10 milligrams.

Columbia reported Wednesday it is negotiating with a dozen tobacco companies for the marketing of the Strickman filter. No company would have exclusive rights to the filter.

Strickman claims his invention could cut the tar and nicotine content of cigarettes by 70 per cent. The filter could be worth $200 million a year if purchased by cigarette manufacturers, he said.

The invention has not been patented and its components have never been revealed.

During the trial, the woman who accused Supanick last March said the man looked like Supanick. Supanick said he was in Lyndhurst that night, but not at the time the woman gave.

Thieu Keeps Up Boycott In Vietnam

RACH GIA, Vietnam (AP) — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu called off an appearance with the other presidential candidates at the last minute today, continuing his boycott of the official campaign tour.

Thieu's aides in Saigon said Wednesday night he would join the 10 civilian candidates today at Rach Gia, capital of Kien Giang Province next to Cambodia and an area where Viet Cong activities are rare.

It was the eighth stop on the tour of the countryside that the civilian candidates are making. About 2,000 persons crowded into a movie house in the center of the fishing and farming community.

A representative of Thieu and his vice presidential running mate, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, said the press of official business forced Thieu to cancel his plans to come to Rach Gia.

The election law says the candidates must campaign together or not campaign at all. Since Thieu and Ky have failed to join the other candidates in the 11-stop swing through the provinces, their opponents accuse them of campaigning illegally on their own. Thieu and Ky claim their frequent trips outside Saigon are "nonpolitical" and part of their official duties.

Probers Turn To New Filter Said To Be More Effective

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigating senators seeking a safer cigarette turned today to a new filter claimed by its sponsors to be far more effective than those now on the market.

A Senate Commerce subcommittee already has been advised that cigarette filters apparently reduce the rate of fatal lung cancer among smokers.

But they also have been told by cancer scientists that some of the filters now in use are ineffective, even worthless.

Inventor Robert L. Strickman said he couldn't even get into the offices of major U.S. tobacco companies when he tried to sell his new filter. So, Strickman said, he gave a half-interest to Columbia University.

Strickman and Columbia President Grayson Kirk were scheduled to appear today before the Commerce subcommittee investigating progress toward development of safer cigarettes.

A panel of cancer researchers told the subcommittee Wednesday the answer lies in part in filtration. Dr. George E. Moore, New York director of public health research, urged steps to cut the tar level of smoke to 15 milligrams a cigarette.

Under terms of the Strickman-Columbia filter project, cigarettes using the new filter could not have a tar content of more thas 10 milligrams.

Columbia reported Wednesday it is negotiating with a dozen tobacco companies for the marketing of the Strickman filter. No company would have exclusive rights to the filter.

Strickman claims his invention could cut the tar and nicotine content of cigarettes by 70 per cent. The filter could be worth $200 million a year if purchased by cigarette manufacturers, he said.

The invention has not been patented and its components have never been revealed.

2 Youths Who Killed 3 To Face More Charges

SONORA, Calif. (AP)—Two shoeless, denim-clad youths—accused of a one-a-day shooting spree through three states that resulted in three killings—faced more criminal charges as a fourth victim continued her battle for life.

Thomas Eugene Braun and Leonard Maine, both 18 and from Ritzville, Wash., at first declined, then agreed to have court-appointed attorneys during their arraignment Wednesday before Judge T. Wesley Osborne in Grovel and Judicial District Court.

They were bound over for preliminary hearing Aug. 29 on charges of attempted murder in the shooting of 17-year-old Susan Diane Bartolomei of Ukiah, Calif., four times. She was found on a mountain road 30 miles southeast of this Sierra foothill community Tuesday morning.

Miss Bartolomei—still unconscious and in critical condition but holding her own at Communist Hospital—lapsed into a coma after gasping words about being kidnaped by two youths in a green car from Oregon, which led to the capture of Braun and Maine.

Surgeons probed for five hours but were unable to remove a bullet from her brain. They were successful in retrieving one from a lung.

If she improves, the Washington youths are expected to be returned to Ukiah, 200 miles northwest, to face charges of murder in the slaying of her 17-year-old boy friend, Timothy Luce, on Monday.

Luce, son of Lake County Dist. Atty. Dave Luce, was shot in the back of the head and dumped in a Hopland vineyard south of Ikiah, 200 miles to the East. Rape and kidnap complaints also have been filed against the pair at Ukiah.

Braun and Maine also are wanted on charges of killing Deanna Buse, 22 of Monroe, Wash., about 20 miles north of Seattle on Saturday, and Samuel Ledgerwood, 57, Portland, Ore., salesman, on an Oregon logging road Sunday.

Bodies of Mrs. Buse and Ledgerwood were found Tuesday night and early Wednesday using information obtained in a telephone interrogation of the pair by out-of-state officers.

Investigators said rape and car theft appeared to be the only motives in the crimes.

Pearson Cool Despite Talk By De Gaulle

OTTAWA (AP)—Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson kept cool Wednesday despite a new overture to French-speaking Quebec from French President Charles de Gaulle.

The French Cabinet announced it would accelerate its cultural and technical aid to Quebec "to help the French of Canada in their effort to maintain and develop their personality."

Speculation that the move would worsen Canadian-French relations diminished when Pearson told a news conference: "The report I have seen doesn't disturb me." The French announcement brought no repetition of the indignant outcry in Canada's English-speaking provinces which greeted De Gaulle's espousal of the French-Canadian separatist cause during his visit to Montreal last month.

Speaking at a public rally then, De Gaulle cried, "Long live free Quebec!"—the slogan of the minority that wants to separate the French-speaking province from Canada. Pearson called that "unacceptable," and De Gaulle canceled a visit to Ottawa and went home.

The prime minister said Wednesday that the report of expanded French aid for Quebec is no more disturbing than "if Britain made a cultural exchange with any province." He said the aid came under a 1965 Canadian-French agreement and that he would comment further if it was required when he had more details from Paris.

Black Power Advocate Still In Jail Despite Cut In Bond

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Even with his bond cut in half Black Power disciple George Washington Ware remained in jail today while officials debated the sedition charges which put him there.

The bond was cut Wednesday from $10,000 to $5,000.

The charges brought against Ware by two Nashville lawyers were criticized by Mayor Beverly Briley and U.S. Atty. Gilbert Merritt.

Merritt said he had advised Briley that the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled 12 years ago that Congress has reserved sedition for the federal courts "and pre-empted state courts in this matter." He said such charges must be brought in federal court.

Briley called a news conference to attack state Rep. Charles Galbreath, one of two men filing the charge, and added, "I do not believe the people of this community desire that our city be a publicity center for activities of this kind."

Ware, 27, who accompanied Stokely Carmichael on a rcent trip to Cuba, was arrested Tuesday on a complaint by Galbreath and Jack Kershaw, a former official of the White Citizens Council.

Defense attorneys said they would defend Ware on the same grounds cited by Briley, who called for quick court action to dispose of the charge and said it should be brought in federal court if at all.

Galbreath and Kershaw said they took their action as private citizens and based it on Ware's statement as reported in newspapers that "black people must achieve power by whatever means necessary, including violence."

"While it may be true that overthrow of the federal government is exclusively under the jurisdiction of federal courts, overthrow of state govrnment would still be in the state court's jurisdiction," Galbreath said.

The charge was brought under the Tennessee sedition statute which sets a maximum fine of $10,000 plus 10 years in prison for persons advocating the overthrow of the state or U.S. government by force or violence or who are members of a group advocating such overthrow.

Health Checkup Urged For Those Going To School

LISBON — The Columbiana County heart branch suggests that parents consider a health checkup for children when getting them ready for school.

Margaret Violand of East Palestine, executive director, said youngsters are exposed to strp infection which usually precedes rheumatic fever and this could lead to rheumatic heart disease. A strep infection —a strep sore throat or scarlet fever, for example — is contagious, while rheumatic fever is not.

Prompt and thorough treatment of strep infections can prevent rheumatic fever, Mrs. Violand said. "It is important that a physiian sees the child early enough to control the infection before it can set off the rheumatic process," she added.

She alerted parents and teachers to look for these danger signals: Fever, fatigue, sore throat, unexplained nosebleeds, restlessness or irritability and pain in limbs and joints. "Get the child to a doctor if any of the danger signals develop once school is under way," she advised.

2 Youths Who Killed 3 To Face More Charges

SONORA, Calif. (AP)—Two shoeless, denim-clad youths—accused of a one-a-day shooting spree through three states that resulted in three killings—faced more criminal charges as a fourth victim continued her battle for life.

Thomas Eugene Braun and Leonard Maine, both 18 and from Ritzville, Wash., at first declined, then agreed to have court-appointed attorneys during their arraignment Wednesday before Judge T. Wesley Osborne in Grovel and Judicial District Court.

They were bound over for preliminary hearing Aug. 29 on charges of attempted murder in the shooting of 17-year-old Susan Diane Bartolomei of Ukiah, Calif., four times. She was found on a mountain road 30 miles southeast of this Sierra foothill community Tuesday morning.

Miss Bartolomei—still unconscious and in critical condition but holding her own at Communist Hospital—lapsed into a coma after gasping words about being kidnaped by two youths in a green car from Oregon, which led to the capture of Braun and Maine.

Surgeons probed for five hours but were unable to remove a bullet from her brain. They were successful in retrieving one from a lung.

If she improves, the Washington youths are expected to be returned to Ukiah, 200 miles northwest, to face charges of murder in the slaying of her 17-year-old boy friend, Timothy Luce, on Monday.

Luce, son of Lake County Dist. Atty. Dave Luce, was shot in the back of the head and dumped in a Hopland vineyard south of Ikiah, 200 miles to the East. Rape and kidnap complaints also have been filed against the pair at Ukiah.

Braun and Maine also are wanted on charges of killing Deanna Buse, 22 of Monroe, Wash., about 20 miles north of Seattle on Saturday, and Samuel Ledgerwood, 57, Portland, Ore., salesman, on an Oregon logging road Sunday.

Bodies of Mrs. Buse and Ledgerwood were found Tuesday night and early Wednesday using information obtained in a telephone interrogation of the pair by out-of-state officers.

Investigators said rape and car theft appeared to be the only motives in the crimes.

Pearson Cool Despite Talk By De Gaulle

OTTAWA (AP)—Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson kept cool Wednesday despite a new overture to French-speaking Quebec from French President Charles de Gaulle.

The French Cabinet announced it would accelerate its cultural and technical aid to Quebec "to help the French of Canada in their effort to maintain and develop their personality."

Speculation that the move would worsen Canadian-French relations diminished when Pearson told a news conference: "The report I have seen doesn't disturb me." The French announcement brought no repetition of the indignant outcry in Canada's English-speaking provinces which greeted De Gaulle's espousal of the French-Canadian separatist cause during his visit to Montreal last month.

Speaking at a public rally then, De Gaulle cried, "Long live free Quebec!"—the slogan of the minority that wants to separate the French-speaking province from Canada. Pearson called that "unacceptable," and De Gaulle canceled a visit to Ottawa and went home.

The prime minister said Wednesday that the report of expanded French aid for Quebec is no more disturbing than "if Britain made a cultural exchange with any province." He said the aid came under a 1965 Canadian-French agreement and that he would comment further if it was required when he had more details from Paris.

Workshop Scheduled In Home Economics

A home economics workshop for teachers from high schools in Jefferson County and six other counties will be held by the Ohio Power Co. Wednesday at Atwood Lake.

Mrs. Kathy Reifsnyder of Canton will be guest speaker. W. A. Black, Coshocton Division manager, will welcome the teachers. Mrs. Elizabeth Kessler and Miss Mary Beth Patrick of Steubenville will be among Ohio Power home economists on the program.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I have a message that can save lives and I want to reach as many people as possible. Please print my letter.

A dear friend and a fine human being died recently because he did something that many of us would do without giving it a second thought. It seems so harmless.

My friend went down to his basement after a heavy rain, waded through 12 inches of water, tried to disconnect an electric appliance and was electrocuted.

Please tell people who have basements that tend to flood to go down and disconnect the appliances BEFORE the floor gets covered with water. If the basement is already flooded, they should call the electric company and ask them to shut off the power from the outside.

This friend was a clergyman, a wonderful human being who knew a great many things, but he paid with his life for not knowing this one bit of information. Thank you for printing this.—CHICAGO.

Dear Chicago: Here is your letter, and I hope parents will discuss this column with their children at dinner tonight. Thank you for writing. You have alerted 54 million people.

Postal Inspector

Dear Ann: How long does it take to recover from a broken heart? It's been more than a year since I discovered that letter in my husband's pocket.

He denied being seriously involved — said she mistook "friendship" for something deeper. According to him, the woman was fantasizing and described things she had hoped would happen, but never did.

I've always been insecure and sensitive, especially where my marriage was concerned. My husband is handsome and vigorous and women simply flip over him. I am plain and quiet and never understood why he married me. When I found that letter I went to pieces, and I can't seem to pull myself together.

We have three beautiful children and a lovely home. I've tried to recover from this blow but I'm not making the grade. My doctor told me to forgive and forget. Is it possible?—STILL HURTING.

Dearl Still: You bet it's possible. Millions of women are doing it. And most of them have a lot more evidence than you have, Lady. If you can't forgive him for HIS sake, forgive him for YOUR sake. From the sound of your letter, I suspect if your husband didn't have a girl friend, you'd invent one.

The Governor

Dear Ann: How long should a former governor call himself "Governor"?

A certain gentleman, who shall be unnamed, has not held this office for one heck of a long time, yet his wife refers to him as "the Governor" and so do his other relatives.

Give them the word, will you?—UNIMPRESSED.

Dear Un: The word is for YOU. Although former governors (and other public officials as well) do not continue to use the title officially, they often retain the title unofficially for the rest of their lives. This does not bother me in the least, but obviously it bothers the daylights out of you. Why?

-:-

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tradesmen Demonstrate Against UAW's Leaders

DETROIT (AP) — Union and company negotiators pondered today the portent of a demonstration Wednesday by hundreds of skilled tradesmen in defiance of the leadership of their United Auto Workers union.

The demonstration at Ford Motor Co. emphasized an often-asked question: Whether the union can win a sufficiently nigh wage increase to keep skilled tradesmen from vetoing any new contract at either Ford, General Motors or Chrysler.

Under a 1966 change in its constitution, the UAW permits skilled and production workers to vote separately on contract ratification, and approval of both is requird.

Chanting, "one, two, three, four—we want a dollar more," the tradesmen ended more than five hours of demonstrating by storming up and down the entrance ramp past front doors of Ford headquarters and snarling traffic, then dispersed quickly.

Many carried placards supporting a previously announced goal of skilled tradesmen to win a $1-an-hour increase yearly over the life of any new contract with the Big Three automakers.

Other placards left no doubt the aim was to put pressure on UAW officials as well as that of the companies.

UAW demands, laid on bargaining tables when new contract negotiations began more than six weeks ago, call for a "substantial" wage boost for all and a "substantial" extra amount for skilled tradesmen.

Production workers outnumber skilled tradesmen by about 7 to 1 in the UAW's 650,000 workers at Big Three plants. The tradesmen—millwrights, electricians and the like— have complained their wages haven't kept pace with similar workers outside the auto industry.

UAW negotiators at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler had urged that the demonstration be called off, terming it "ill advised and ill timed." UAW President Walter P. Reuther said he agreed.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I have a message that can save lives and I want to reach as many people as possible. Please print my letter.

A dear friend and a fine human being died recently because he did something that many of us would do without giving it a second thought. It seems so harmless.

My friend went down to his basement after a heavy rain, waded through 12 inches of water, tried to disconnect an electric appliance and was electrocuted.

Please tell people who have basements that tend to flood to go down and disconnect the appliances BEFORE the floor gets covered with water. If the basement is already flooded, they should call the electric company and ask them to shut off the power from the outside.

This friend was a clergyman, a wonderful human being who knew a great many things, but he paid with his life for not knowing this one bit of information. Thank you for printing this.—CHICAGO.

Dear Chicago: Here is your letter, and I hope parents will discuss this column with their children at dinner tonight. Thank you for writing. You have alerted 54 million people.

Postal Inspector

Dear Ann: How long does it take to recover from a broken heart? It's been more than a year since I discovered that letter in my husband's pocket.

He denied being seriously involved — said she mistook "friendship" for something deeper. According to him, the woman was fantasizing and described things she had hoped would happen, but never did.

I've always been insecure and sensitive, especially where my marriage was concerned. My husband is handsome and vigorous and women simply flip over him. I am plain and quiet and never understood why he married me. When I found that letter I went to pieces, and I can't seem to pull myself together.

We have three beautiful children and a lovely home. I've tried to recover from this blow but I'm not making the grade. My doctor told me to forgive and forget. Is it possible?—STILL HURTING.

Dearl Still: You bet it's possible. Millions of women are doing it. And most of them have a lot more evidence than you have, Lady. If you can't forgive him for HIS sake, forgive him for YOUR sake. From the sound of your letter, I suspect if your husband didn't have a girl friend, you'd invent one.

The Governor

Dear Ann: How long should a former governor call himself "Governor"?

A certain gentleman, who shall be unnamed, has not held this office for one heck of a long time, yet his wife refers to him as "the Governor" and so do his other relatives.

Give them the word, will you?—UNIMPRESSED.

Dear Un: The word is for YOU. Although former governors (and other public officials as well) do not continue to use the title officially, they often retain the title unofficially for the rest of their lives. This does not bother me in the least, but obviously it bothers the daylights out of you. Why?

-:-

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tradesmen Demonstrate Against UAW's Leaders

DETROIT (AP) — Union and company negotiators pondered today the portent of a demonstration Wednesday by hundreds of skilled tradesmen in defiance of the leadership of their United Auto Workers union.

The demonstration at Ford Motor Co. emphasized an often-asked question: Whether the union can win a sufficiently nigh wage increase to keep skilled tradesmen from vetoing any new contract at either Ford, General Motors or Chrysler.

Under a 1966 change in its constitution, the UAW permits skilled and production workers to vote separately on contract ratification, and approval of both is requird.

Chanting, "one, two, three, four—we want a dollar more," the tradesmen ended more than five hours of demonstrating by storming up and down the entrance ramp past front doors of Ford headquarters and snarling traffic, then dispersed quickly.

Many carried placards supporting a previously announced goal of skilled tradesmen to win a $1-an-hour increase yearly over the life of any new contract with the Big Three automakers.

Other placards left no doubt the aim was to put pressure on UAW officials as well as that of the companies.

UAW demands, laid on bargaining tables when new contract negotiations began more than six weeks ago, call for a "substantial" wage boost for all and a "substantial" extra amount for skilled tradesmen.

Production workers outnumber skilled tradesmen by about 7 to 1 in the UAW's 650,000 workers at Big Three plants. The tradesmen—millwrights, electricians and the like— have complained their wages haven't kept pace with similar workers outside the auto industry.

UAW negotiators at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler had urged that the demonstration be called off, terming it "ill advised and ill timed." UAW President Walter P. Reuther said he agreed.

Evangelist Mabel Hagins of Philadelphia is the guest speaker at revival services being held each night at 7:30 p.m. through Saturday at the Center.

Chicago Increases Lead As Priddy Stops Red Sox

Senator Pitches 1st 9-Inning Job

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

It figured that Bob Priddy's first major league complete game would come against Boston. He'd been working up to it for years.

Priddy went the distance for Washington Wednesday night as the Senators downed the Red Sox 3-2 on Paul Casanova's ninth-inning sacrifice fly.

When Priddy was with San Francisco the last few seasons he saw a lot of the Red Sox since both clubs trained in Arizona and met often in exhibition games.

He came to the Senators this season and of his three previous starts, the only winning one was against Boston in June. But he didn't go the distance. So in a doubleheader Tuesday, Priddy charted every pitch to Boston hitters and when his turn came again he was ready.

In other American League games Wednesday night, Chicago beat New York 5-2, Detroit and Minnesota split a doubleheader 10-0 and 3-4, California destroyed Cleveland 16-5 and Baltimore blanked Kansas City 1-0.

Boston, now in second place in the hot American League race a game behind Chicago, took an early lead on Carl Yastrzemski's 32nd homer, but Ed Stroid put the Senators ahead with his first major league shot.

The Sox tied it up in the seventh, but Casanova came through after Hank Allen doubled in the ninth and moved to third on an infield out.

Ken Berry hit key singles in a pair of two-run rallies for the White Sox, who made their league lead a little less precarious, but still plenty close. Fred Klages turned in a five-hit pitching job until the seventh and Don McMahon and Bob Locker came in to finish up.

The Tigers and Twins fell into a third-place tie, 1½ games behind the White Sox after the Tigers got four-hit pitching from Joe Sparma and four-hit hitting from Dick Tracewski in the opener.

But the Twins got a homer from Harmon Killebrew that made the difference in the finale.

Rick Reichardt's grand-slam home run was the big blow in the Angels' 25-hit attack, the largest in terms of hits and runs in the league this season. Jim Fregosi had four hits for California.

Pete Richert scattered eight hits among the Kansas City batting order and Frank Robinson's run-scoring single accounted for the game's only score.

WRONG SPORT. Minnesota Twins' manager Cal Ermer appears to be rushing the football season as he kicks his hat to protest an interference call that allowed Dick Tracewski of the Detroit Tigers to score after he was caught in a rundown. Umpire Emmett Ashford throws Ermer out of the game. Onlookers include Twins catcher Jerry Zimmerman (22). Twins and Tigers split a doubleheader, losing ground to the White Sox in frantic American League pennant race. (UPI Telephoto)

Members Abuse WPIAL, Says Leader McNamara

By IRA MILLER

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League (WPIAL) is in trouble because of membership abuses, says its president.

Robert A. McNamara, principal of Quaker Valley High School in Leetsdale, called for the WPIAL's 151 member schools to give sports back to their students.

He made it clear he was asking for a searching re-evaluation rather than a de-emphasis.

"Something is going to have to be done or we're going to lose control of the whole thing," McNamara said Wednesday night. "People tend to forget that sports are for the kids."

McNamara, who spoke to representatives of the league's members at an unusual pre-season meeting earlier Wednesday, said the abuses to which he referred were not necessarily confined to the WPIAL.

"It doesn't happen just here," he said. "It's all over the state and in other states."

But, added McNamara, he was interested solely in cleaning his own house.

Abuses he cited included pressure from outside groups, disrespect for authority, evasion of league rules by some schools and even gambling on games.

Aliquippa High School was placed on probation last year, McNamara said, but he said that many other violations are not formally presented to the league.

"We feel there are many abuses," he said. "The league was formed to stop such abuses but we have gotten off the road somewhere. Now we're trying to get back on the right track.

"The high school athletic program should be part of the educational system and not something to benefit a small minority of people."

McNamara cited cases of rowdyism at games including fights and near-riots, schools' juggling of attendance records and residence data to keep athletes eligible, and community pressures.

"They want to win at any costs," he said. "People are betting on games, and some of them are losing money. Then they want to put pressure on coaches to win and on school districts to hire new coaches."

McNamara also said that some schools had refused to play others because of incidents which took place at previous games.

"They make it difficult to remember what the game is for," he said.

"Large athletic treasuries, personal aggrandizement of coaches, personal prestige of school directors and school administrators, and expensive and embellished gifts to winning coaches and teams are not the purpose for which athletics were instituted.

"If these conditions are allowed to persist, the results to our league will be tragic. Action has to be taken in order for the program of high school athletics . . . to survive."

The WPIAL, formed in 1906, includes the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Lawrence, Armstrong, Beaver, Westmoreland, Washington, Greene and Fayette.

Friends, Not Money Object Of DeVicenzo's Golf Playing

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—Roberto de Vicenzo, the British Open champion from the Argentine, plays golf to make friends—not the buck.

"I go all over the world to play golf and make friends," the golfing gaucho said. "Last year I played in six tournaments and made $28,000. That's enough. What do I need with more money?"

Roberto, a balding, 44-year-old with a delightful smile, has toured the world's golf courses for more than 20 years but plays only occasionally in the United States.

He gained his first major title this spring when he annexed the British Open crown and captured the fancy of England's golfing millions.

"It was very very nice, of course," Roberto said today before setting out with 153 others in the first round of the $250,000 Westchester Classic.

"It just came about 10 years too late."

The victory was worth only about $10,000 in cash, but De Vicenzo couldn't care less.

"It was very important to me to have a major title," he said. "And I made a lot of friends. The money is nice, but it isn't that important.

"About $25,000 a year is enough. Then you can relax and enjoy it. If I get enough here, maybe I go home."

And there's a good chance he will make enough. The Westchester is the richest medal play tourney in the world, with a first prize of $50,000, second $30,000 and third $18,750. It ranges down to $500 for the 50th man with No. 42 making $1,000 Roberto has $22,626,11 in official earnings this season and is almost certain to go over his $25,000-$28,000 goal in the very near future.

De Vicenzo's delicate touch with the irons made him one of the favorites for the tight 6,573 yards, par 72 Westchester Country Club test.

The top choices, as usual, were Arnold Palmer, the all-time leading money winner who has won three this year, and U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus.

Other top attractions include Gary Player of South Africa, two-time U. S. Open champs Julius Boros and Billy Casper, Masters champion Gay Brewer and PGA titleholder Don January. Bobby Nichols had a practice round 66.

The final two rounds will be telecast by Sports Network, 5-6:30 p.m., EDT, Saturday and 4:30-6:30 p.m. EDT, Sunday.

100-Lap Race Set At Clinton Speedway

Lou Blaney, the big winner in the marathon races at Greater Pittsburgh Speedway near Clinton this past season, will be the driver to watch in the 100-lap Invitational on Friday night.

There have been three extra-lap races at Greater Pittsburgh this year and the fast-moving driver from Hartford, O., has won all three.

The some 30 top super-modified drivers who will be competing for a starting position include a strong entry list of "hot-shot" out - of - state drivers lured in by the record purse for the event which will pay $1,000 to the winner.

The regular competitors at the Clinton oval, such as Dick Bailey of Grove City, Bud Crytser of Morgantown, W. Va.; J. D. Leas of Steubenville, Jerry Matus of Wampum, and Dale Johnson of Hartford, O., also must be taken into consideration.

Bailey has been particularly impressive and for the last two months has been running neck and neck with Blaney for the season championship.

Time trials for the super race will start at 7 p.m. with the first of the preliminaries set to go at 8:30 p.m. Rain date is Saturday.

Bobsledder, Alternate Olympic Coach Dies

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — John J. Helmer, an Olympic bobsledder and alternate coach of the United States' bobsled teams for the 1968 Winter Olympics, died Tuesday night in Physician's Hospital. He was 46.

Helmer, who lived here, had been ill for nearly two years.

Commissioner Eckert Appealed To By A's

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics, last in the American League, are going right to the top in their smouldering dispute with club owner Charles O. Finley.

Maintainig their solidarity, the A's have voted unanimously to request a formal hearing and investigation by baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert.

As the Athletics headed home today upon completion of a road trip, the request was to be made of Eckert in New York by Marvin J. Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association.

Finley and the A's have been openly feuding since the controversial club owner suspended and fined pitcher Lew Krausse last week for an alleged incident aboard an airliner.

"The players feel Finley's actions have been detrimental to baseball and are appealing under a major league agreement that the commissioner can look into any such actions," Miller said Wednesday night.

Chiefs Shock Bears 66-24, Dawson Stars

KANSAS CITY (AP)—"They gave every indication tonight they could play as good as any team in the National Football League," said 72-year-old Papa George Halas after his Chicago Bears were thrashed 66-24 by the revenge-minded Kansas City Chiefs.

Halas was generous in his comments about Coach Hank Stram's unbeaten American Football League champions, who cut the NFL's lead to 5-3 in the current exhibition series.

"He's a great one," said Halas of flanker Otis Taylor. "Len Dawson is as fine as any quarterback in the game. Buck Buchanan is an outstanding football player."

His words were music to the ears of Kansas City players and fans who couldn't forget Green Bay's 35-10 world title victory. This time they saw a club scoring mark.

Dawson, waived out of the NFL five years ago, didn't miss his chance to credit Stram's play - action play, which start like a running play.

"What did it was the play-action pass," Dawson said. "We knew they were tough defensively against a stand - up passer and we knew they hadn't seen the play-action much. We had a pretty good idea it would work."

Dawson was 10-for-15 for 212 yards and four touchdowns. He triggered an amazing 32-point second period. It was 46-17 when he left.

Chicago Increases Lead As Priddy Stops Red Sox

Senator Pitches 1st 9-Inning Job

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

It figured that Bob Priddy's first major league complete game would come against Boston. He'd been working up to it for years.

Priddy went the distance for Washington Wednesday night as the Senators downed the Red Sox 3-2 on Paul Casanova's ninth-inning sacrifice fly.

When Priddy was with San Francisco the last few seasons he saw a lot of the Red Sox since both clubs trained in Arizona and met often in exhibition games.

He came to the Senators this season and of his three previous starts, the only winning one was against Boston in June. But he didn't go the distance. So in a doubleheader Tuesday, Priddy charted every pitch to Boston hitters and when his turn came again he was ready.

In other American League games Wednesday night, Chicago beat New York 5-2, Detroit and Minnesota split a doubleheader 10-0 and 3-4, California destroyed Cleveland 16-5 and Baltimore blanked Kansas City 1-0.

Boston, now in second place in the hot American League race a game behind Chicago, took an early lead on Carl Yastrzemski's 32nd homer, but Ed Stroid put the Senators ahead with his first major league shot.

The Sox tied it up in the seventh, but Casanova came through after Hank Allen doubled in the ninth and moved to third on an infield out.

Ken Berry hit key singles in a pair of two-run rallies for the White Sox, who made their league lead a little less precarious, but still plenty close. Fred Klages turned in a five-hit pitching job until the seventh and Don McMahon and Bob Locker came in to finish up.

The Tigers and Twins fell into a third-place tie, 1½ games behind the White Sox after the Tigers got four-hit pitching from Joe Sparma and four-hit hitting from Dick Tracewski in the opener.

But the Twins got a homer from Harmon Killebrew that made the difference in the finale.

Rick Reichardt's grand-slam home run was the big blow in the Angels' 25-hit attack, the largest in terms of hits and runs in the league this season. Jim Fregosi had four hits for California.

Pete Richert scattered eight hits among the Kansas City batting order and Frank Robinson's run-scoring single accounted for the game's only score.

WRONG SPORT. Minnesota Twins' manager Cal Ermer appears to be rushing the football season as he kicks his hat to protect an interference call that allowed Dick Tracewski of the Detroit Tigers to score after he was caught in a rundown. Umpire Emmett Ashford throws Ermer out of the game. Onlookers include Twins catcher Jerry Zimmerman (22). Twins and Tigers split a doubleheader, losing ground to the White Sox in frantic American League pennant race. (UPI Telephoto)

Members Abuse WPIAL, Says Leader McNamara

By IRA MILLER

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League (WPIAL) is in trouble because of membership abuses, says its president.

Robert A. McNamara, principal of Quaker Valley High School in Leetsdale, called for the WPIAL's 151 member schools to give sports back to their students.

He made it clear he was asking for a searching re-evaluation rather than a de-emphasis.

"Something is going to have to be done or we're going to lose control of the whole thing," McNamara said Wednesday night. "People tend to forget that sports are for the kids."

McNamara, who spoke to representatives of the league's members at an unusual pre-season meeting earlier Wednesday, said the abuses to which he referred were not necessarily confined to the WPIAL.

"It doesn't happen just here," he said. "It's all over the state and in other states."

But, added McNamara, he was interested solely in cleaning his own house.

Abuses he cited included pressure from outside groups, disrespect for authority, evasion of league rules by some schools and even gambling on games.

Aliquippa High School was placed on probation last year, McNamara said, but he said that many other violations are not formally presented to the league.

"We feel there are many abuses," he said. "The league was formed to stop such abuses but we have gotten off the road somewhere. Now we're trying to get back on the right track.

"The high school athletic program should be part of the educational system and not something to benefit a small minority of people."

McNamara cited cases of rowdyism at games including fights and near-riots, schools' juggling of attendance records and residence data to keep athletes eligible, and community pressures.

"They want to win at any costs," he said. "People are betting on games, and some of them are losing money. Then they want to put pressure on coaches to win and on school districts to hire new coaches."

McNamara also said that some schools had refused to play others because of incidents which took place at previous games.

"They make it difficult to remember what the game is for," he said.

"Large athletic treasuries, personal aggrandizement of coaches, personal prestige of school directors and school administrators, and expensive and embellished gifts to winning coaches and teams are not the purpose for which athletics were instituted.

"If these conditions are allowed to persist, the results to our league will be tragic. Action has to be taken in order for the program of high school athletics . . . to survive."

The WPIAL, formed in 1906, includes the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Lawrence, Armstrong, Beaver, Westmoreland, Washington, Greene and Fayette.

Friends, Not Money Object Of DeVicenzo's Golf Playing

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—Roberto de Vicenzo, the British Open champion from the Argentine, plays golf to make friends—not the buck.

"I go all over the world to play golf and make friends," the golfing gaucho said. "Last year I played in six tournaments and made $28,000. That's enough. What do I need with more money?"

Roberto, a balding, 44-year-old with a delightful smile, has toured the world's golf courses for more than 20 years but plays only occasionally in the United States.

He gained his first major title this spring when he annexed the British Open crown and captured the fancy of England's golfing millions.

"It was very very nice, of course," Roberto said today before setting out with 153 others in the first round of the $250,000 Westchester Classic.

"It just came about 10 years too late."

The victory was worth only about $10,000 in cash, but De Vicenzo couldn't care less.

"It was very important to me to have a major title," he said. "And I made a lot of friends. The money is nice, but it isn't that important.

"About $25,000 a year is enough. Then you can relax and enjoy it. If I get enough here, maybe I go home."

And there's a good chance he will make enough. The Westchester is the richest medal play tourney in the world, with a first prize of $50,000, second $30,000 and third $18,750. It ranges down to $500 for the 50th man with No. 42 making $1,000 Roberto has $22,626.11 in official earnings this season and is almost certain to go over his $25,000-$28,000 goal in the very near future.

De Vicenzo's delicate touch with the irons made him one of the favorites for the tight 6,573 yards, par 72 Westchester Country Club test.

The top choices, as usual, were Arnold Palmer, the all-time leading money winner who has won three this year, and U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus.

Other top attractions include Gary Player of South Africa, two-time U. S. Open champs Julius Boros and Billy Casper, Masters champion Gay Brewer and PGA titleholder Don January. Bobby Nichols had a practice round 66.

The final two rounds will be telecast by Sports Network, 5-6:30 p.m., EDT, Saturday and 4:30-6:30 p.m. EDT, Sunday.

100-Lap Race Set At Clinton Speedway

Lou Blaney, the big winner in the marathon races at Greater Pittsburgh Speedway near Clinton this past season, will be the driver to watch in the 100-lap Invitational on Friday night.

There have been three extra-lap races at Greater Pittsburgh this year and the fast-moving driver from Hartford, O., has won all three.

The some 30 top super-modified drivers who will be competing for a starting position include a strong entry list of "hot-shot" out - of - state drivers lured in by the record purse for the event which will pay $1,000 to the winner.

The regular competitors at the Clinton oval, such as Dick Bailey of Grove City, Bud Crytser of Morgantown, W. Va.; J. D. Leas of Steubenville, Jerry Matus of Wampum, and Dale Johnson of Hartford, O., also must be taken into consideration.

Bailey has been particularly impressive and for the last two months has been running neck and neck with Blaney for the season championship.

Time trials for the super race will start at 7 p.m. with the first of the preliminaries set to go at 8:30 p.m. Rain date is Saturday.

Bobsledder, Alternate Olympic Coach Dies

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — John J. Helmer, an Olympic bobsledder and alternate coach of the United States' bobsled teams for the 1968 Winter Olympics, died Tuesday night in Physician's Hospital. He was 46.

Helmer, who lived here, had been ill for nearly two years.

Commissioner Eckert Appealed To By A's

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics, last in the American League, are going right to the top in their smouldering dispute with club owner Charles O. Finley.

Maintainig their solidarity, the A's have voted unanimously to request a formal hearing and investigation by baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert.

As the Athletics headed home today upon completion of a road trip, the request was to be made of Eckert in New York by Marvin J. Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association.

Finley and the A's have been openly feuding since the controversial club owner suspended and fined pitcher Lew Krausse last week for an alleged incident aboard an airliner.

"The players feel Finley's actions have been detrimental to baseball and are appealing under a major league agreement that the commissioner can look into any such actions," Miller said Wednesday night.

Chiefs Shock Bears 66-24, Dawson Stars

KANSAS CITY (AP)—"They gave every indication tonight they could play as good as any team in the National Football League," said 72-year-old Papa George Halas after his Chicago Bears were thrashed 66-24 by the revenge-minded Kansas City Chiefs.

Halas was generous in his comments about Coach Hank Stram's unbeaten American Football League champions, who cut the NFL's lead to 5-3 in the current exhibtion series.

"He's a great one," said Halas of flanker Otis Taylor. "Len Dawson is as fine as any quarterback in the game. Buck Buchanan is an outstanding football player."

His words were music to the ears of Kansas City players and fans who couldn't forget Green Bay's 35-10 world title victory. This time they saw a club scoring mark.

McBean Stops Cubs 2-1

Reliefer Goes Route In Buc Win

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ron Santo is one of Al McBean's biggest boosters, but flattery still can't get him to first base against the Pittsburgh Pirates' newest starting pitcher.

McBean, making only his second start in two years Wednesday night, went the distance for a 2-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs...and protected his slim edge by robbing Santo of a hit with the tying run on third base in the eighth inning.

"He's good and cocky and he gets the job done, which is what counts," Santo says of the Pirate bullpen specialist, who has split two starting decisions with the Cubs this season after working exclusively in relief since August, 1965. "He's as fast as anybody in the league and he almost dares you to hit the ball."

Santo went hitless in his first three at-bats Wednesday night, then challenged McBean in the eighth with two out and Don Kessinger on third. But McBean made a leaping stab of the Chicago sluger's smash through the box and threw him out, ending the Cubs' last threat.

Elsewhere, San Francisco blanked St. Louis' National League leaders 6-0 behind Mike McCormick's five-hitter; Atlanta trounced Houston 9-3; Philadelphia edged the New York Mets 3-2 and Los Angeles pounded Cincinnati 8-0.

McBean, given an early two-run lead, scattered eight hits on the way to his fourth victory in seven decisions. Losing picther Bill Hands' fifth-inning single delivered the Cubs' run.

Matty Alou singled in the Pirates' first, stole second and scored on a single by Roberto Clemente. Manny Mota's double, an infield hit by Gene Alley and a ground out produced the deciding run in the second.

McCormick rolled to his 17th victory—tops in the league—and beat the Cardinals for the third time without a loss this season. With the help of Willie Mays' 16th homer, a two-run blast in the third.

Orlando Cepeda, the league batting leader, had three of the Cards' five hits off McCormick, 17-6 for the year.

Hank Aaron and Tito Francona each knocked in four runs in Atlanta's comeback victory, which snapped a five-game losing string for the Braves.

Aaron drilled the first of his two two-run doubles in the seventh, sending the Braves ahead 4-3. Francona socked a two-run homer in the first and a two-run single in the Braves' five-run eighth.

The Phillies extended New York's losing skein to seven, longest of the season for the Mets, as Johnny Briggs rapped a two-run homer and Dick Ellsworth combined with reliever Dick Hall to scatter 11 hits.

Southpaw Claude Osteen blanked Cincinnati on three hits for his 15th victory against 11 losses and West Parker drove in three runs with as many singles to pace the Dodgers' attack.

RICKETTS RACKED. Dick Ricketts, Cardinal catcher and former Duquesne basketball star, gets throw from Lou Brock a little late as Jim Ray Hart of the Giants scores a single by Hal Lanier in the second inning of yesterday's game in San Francisco, won by the Giants 6-0. (UPI Telephoto)

Veteran Chargers Try To Climb Back

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

ESCONDIDO, Calif. (AP) — To Coach Sid Gillman of the San Diego Chargers, the merger of the American and National Football Leagues might be the greatest thing since the amalgamation of Adam and Eve.

But you can carry a good thing too far, and that is what Gillman possibly has done by scheduling three consecutive exhibition games with National League teams.

"If the merger hadn't come about," Gillman said, "we as a club would have been dead, assuming we followed the same policy."

He referred to the Chargers' policy of not extending lucrative bonuses to college players who also had been drafted by the NFL.

The Chargers failed to sign their high draft choices for two years, and they paid for it last year by skidding from the top of the Western Division to within one spot of the bottom.

Came the merger and the common draft, however, and the Chargers started signing their draft choices again. They also scheduled those three interleague games with Detroit, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh. No other AFL team scheduled more than two games with the NFL, and none on consecutive weekends.

Now their problem is can they come out of those battles unscathed enough to start the regular season in competitive fashion?

The answer could be no, and it could damage the Chargers' chances to climb back up the ladder.

"We have to go all out in preseason games," Gillman said, explaining his exhibition philosophy. "We'll settle for nothing less. Any veteran who thinks he can turn it on for the regular season is wrong. You can't turn it on and off like a light switch. You have to turn it on from the start."

The Chargers have quite a bit of experience to turn on.

There are Lance Alworth, the league's premier pass receiver; Paul Lowe, one of the most dangerous runners in the league; John Hadl, the second leading quarterback in 1966; Kenny Graham and Speedy Duncan, two of the top defensive backs, and tackle Ron Mix, the only man to make the All-Star team every year the league has been in existence.

Now in his sixth season, Hadl has not been less than second statistically in passing the past three years.

Lowe, on the other hand, dropped off last year to 643 yards rushing from his record-breaking 1,121 the year before. The 30-year-old halfback wants the record back — Boston's Jim Nance broke it last year — and if he even comes close to getting it, San Diego could be trouble.

Joining Alworth on the receiving end of Hadl's passes are split end Gary Garrison and tight end Jacque MacKinnon. With Mix in the interior offensive line are tackle Ernie Wright, guards Walt Sweeney and Ed Mitchell and center Sam Gruneisen.

Defensively, Gillman has bolstered his line by acquiring end Tom Day from Buffalo for Keith Lincoln. He also picked up tackle Scott Appleton and linebacker John Baker from Houston for Miller Farr.

Appleton is fighting holdovers Steve DeLong and George Gross for a job while Baker could break into a starting spot along with Rick Redman, Frank Buncom or Chuck Allen, who was injured after San Diego jumped to a 4-0 record last season.

"I never did have a good feeling about our team last year, even when we were 4-0," Gillman said.

This year, though, brings a different feeling.

"We have lots of talent, and potentially we have a real fine team," he continued. "We have lots of youth, tremendous interest and we'll have one of the finest defenses we've ever had. If we have some luck, we'll win some games."

Unless they lose them even before the season starts.

Rookie Cornerback Ward To Face Atlanta

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—Rookie cornerback Carl Ward will get a chance to crack the varsity Friday night when he opens against the Atlanta Falcons in a National Football League exhibition game.

Ward, a 5-foot-9, 180-pounder from the University of Michigan, was drafted fourth by the Cleveland Browns but got off to a slow start because of a training camp injury.

Coach Blanton Collier said, "Carl was primarily an offensive player in college and many people wondered why we drafted him. We were thinking of him all the time as a kick return man and defensive backfield prospect."

"Our talent scouts always keep in mind that aggressive offensive backs frequently develop into good defensive pro players," Collier added.

"There also is precedent for fellows his size doing well in the National Football League. Pat Fischer of St. Louis is one of the good cornermen. And he's no bigger than Carl."

Ward, who played high school football at Cincinnati Taft, wil get the chance in Atlanta because Mike Howell still has a back injury.

Mexicans, Chicago Win In LL Play

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—The possibility of two foreign teams meeting for the Little league World Championship loomed today for the first time in the 21-year history of the tournament for baseball's small fry.

When Linares, Mexico, rallied with two out in the last inning Wednesday to edge Northridge, Calif., 1-0, it set up two foreign teams in the semifinals for the first time since the Little League World Series began here in 1947.

West Tokyo, Japan, beat East Trail, B.C., 3-0, Tuesday on a last-inning home run by pitcher Masahíro Miyahara.

Upholding the honor of the United States in today's pair of semifinal games (2 p.m. and 5 p.m.) are Newtown - Edgmont, Pa., which meets Tokyo in the opener, and North Roseland, Chicago. North Roseland won Wednesday over the U.S. Naval Station, Rota, Spain, on a 1-0, no-hitter by 12-year-old Bob Stratta—the eighth no-hit, no-run game in series history.

The championship game is scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday, and only twice has the title left the country — in 1957 and again in 1958 when Monterey, Mexico, took it.

Richmond Boosts Lead In IL To 2

By The Associated Press

When the history of the 1967 International League baseball race is written, it may well show that the tide of battle was turned, as it so often is, by a United States Marine.

Pitcher Jim Britton, who only last Sunday ended a two-week Marines summer training stint, gave Rochester only seven hits in a 6-1 Richmond victory Wednesday night that boosted the Braves' first - place margin to two games over Rochester.

In other action, third-place Toledo—the only other team in the league above the .500 level—was shut out by Buffalo, 2-0; Syracuse blanked Jacksonville, 4-0, and Columbus edged Toronto, 6-4.

Lefty Phil Henderson spun a four-hitter in Buffalo's shutout of Toledo. Daryl Patterson's three-hitter went to waste for the Mud Hens.

Elvio Jiminez' two-run triple in the eighth inning was the turning point in the Columbus-Toronto contest.

Squirrel Gunner Sets Mark

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — Hiram Bradley was a squirrel's nightmare.

Bradley, a 30-year-old school counselor from Greenville, Ohio, gave up hunting about four years ago and took up trapshooting.

Wednesday, on the firing line at the Grand American Trapshooting Tournament, he broke the world's record for the number of consecutive targets downed—1,469.

"I used to get a good many squirrels, too," said Bradley, "but I gave up hunting because I didn't get to shoot enough."

Now, he's glad that he did. The squirrels probably are, too.

Bradley was shooting during competition for the Amateur Clay Target Championship of America when he downed his record-setting bird from 16 yards out. The old mark was 1,434 set in 1959 by Arnold Rieger of Seattle, Wash.

The guidance counselor, who said "I relaxed a little too much" after his string ended, had broken 1,325 straight registered targets in American Trapshooting Association meets going into Wednesday. His string dated back to the Ohio Trapshooting Tournament here June 16.

Now he's after the high overall title at the tournament here.

Of 1,000 targets counted in the high over-all series, Bradley has missed only one in 600. The one missed was the shot that ended his record-breaking string Wednesday.

As the gunners here were tuning up for Friday's Grand American Handicap, Ernest Havlicek of Pomona, Calif., was winning the Clay Target title.

Havlicek broke 200 and then went 75 X 75 in a shootoff with Bethal Park, Pa.'s, Samuel Ambler, the runner-up.

Punkin Flock of Miami, Fla., grabbed the Ladies Clay Target title on shooting of 193 plus 24 X 25 in a shootoff.

In the continuation of a match held over from Tuesday night, Bradley defeated Bueford Bailey of Big Springs, Neb., for top honors on Class Championship Day competition. Each had broken 400 straight in Tuesday's shooting but Bailey missed three of 75 in Wednesday's round as Bradley continued blasting his way to the world's record.

As a basketball player, Stanley led his team to the state class AA championship after averaging 27 points and 22 rebounds a game during the regular season.

His 6-foot-3 leap in the high jump is only one inch off the West Virginia University record.

Carlen called Stanley "a natural athlete who could play almost anywhere in the lineup."

McBean Stops Cubs 2-1

Reliefer Goes Route In Buc Win

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ron Santo is one of Al McBean's biggest boosters, but flattery still can't get him to first base against the Pittsburgh Pirates' newest starting pitcher.

McBean, making only his second start in two years Wednesday night, went the distance for a 2-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs...and protected his slim edge by robbing Santo of a hit with the tying run on third base in the eighth inning.

"He's good and cocky and he gets the job done, which is what counts," Santo says of the Pirate bullpen specialist, who has split two starting decisions with the Cubs this season after working exclusively in relief since August, 1965. "He's as fast as anybody in the league and he almost dares you to hit the ball."

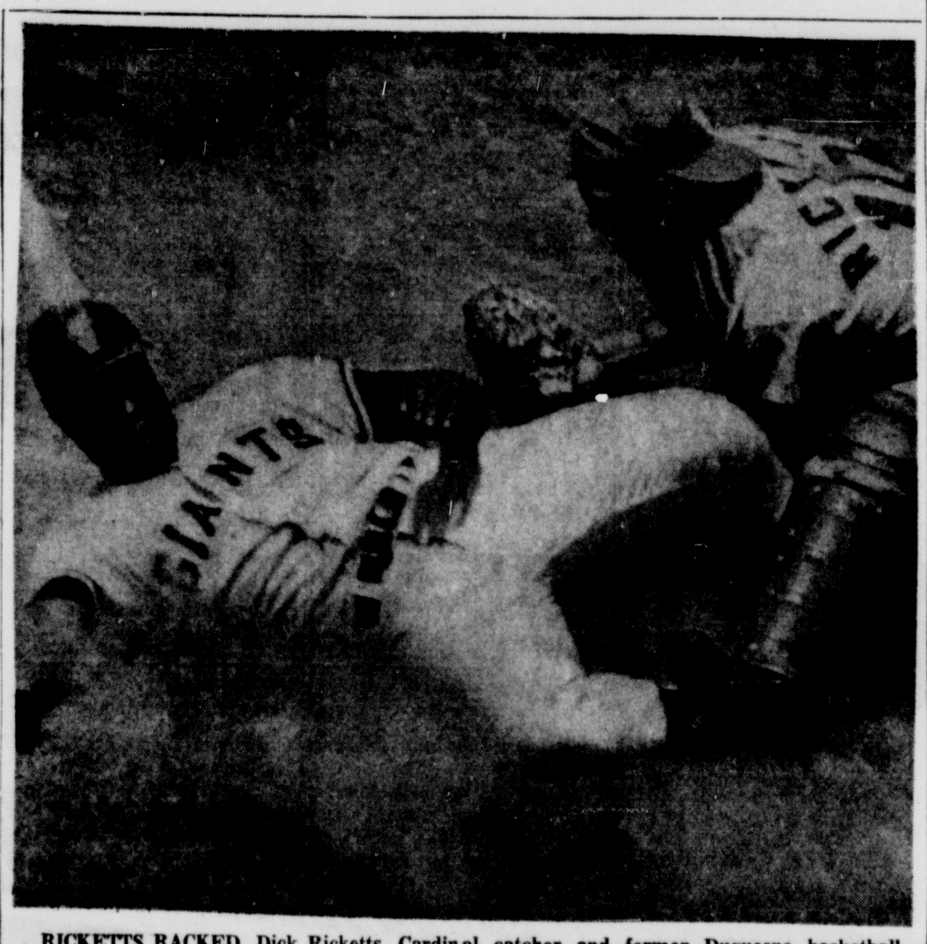
Santo went hitless in his first three at-bats Wednesday night, then challenged McBean in the eighth with two out and Don Kessinger on third. But McBean made a leaping stab of the Chicago sluger's smash through the box and threw him out, ending the Cubs' last threat.

Elsewhere, San Francisco blanked St. Louis' National League leaders 6-0 behind Mike McCormick's five-hitter; Atlanta trounced Houston 9-3; Philadelphia edged the New York Mets 3-2 and Los Angeles pounded Cincinnati 8-0.

McBean, given an early two-run lead, scattered eight hits on the way to his fourth victory in seven decisions. Losing picther Bill Hands' fifth-inning single delivered the Cubs' run.

Matty Alou singled in the Pirates' first, stole second and scored on a single by Roberto Clemente. Manny Mota's double, an infield hit by Gene Alley and a ground out produced the deciding run in the second.

McCormick rolled to his 17th victory—tops in the league—and beat the Cardinals for the third time without a loss this season. With the help of Willie Mays' 16th homer, a two-run blast in the third.



RICKETTS RACKED. Dick Ricketts, Cardinal catcher and former Duquesne basketball star, gets throw from Lou Brock a little late as Jim Ray Hart of the Giants scores a single by Hal Lanier in the second inning of yesterday's game in San Francisco, won by the Giants 6-0. (UPI Telephoto)

★ ★ ★

Orlando Cepeda, the league batting leader, had three of the Cards' five hits off McCormick, 17-6 for the year.

Hank Aaron and Tito Francona each knocked in four runs in Atlanta's comeback victory, which snapped a five-game losing string for the Braves.

Aaron drilled the first of his two two-run doubles in the seventh, sending the Braves ahead 4-3. Francona socked a two-run homer in the first and a two-run single in the Braves' five-run eighth.

The Phillies extended New York's losing skein to seven, longest of the season for the Mets, as Johnny Briggs rapped a two-run homer and Dick Ellsworth combined with reliever Dick Hall to scatter 11 hits.

Southpaw Claude Osteen blanked Cincinnati on three hits for his 15th victory against 11 losses and West Parker drove in three runs with as many singles to pace the Dodgers' attack.

Three Sport Star Signed By WVU

MORGANTOWN (AP) — West Virginia University football coach Jim Carlen today announced the signing of a grant in aid by Roy Stanley, a 6-foot-3, 215-pound and from Carver High School at Atlanta, Ga.

Carlen called the 18-year-old Stanley "the best athlete in the state of Georgia."

Young Stanley was All-Georgia in both football and basketball. He caught 15 touchdown passes last year, and was the first Negro ever selected to play in the Georgia All - Star football game.

As a basketball player, Stanley led his team to the state class AA championship after averaging 27 points and 22 rebounds a game during the regular season.

His 6-foot-3 leap in the high jump is only one inch off the West Virginia University record.

Carlen called Stanley "a natural athlete who could play almost anywhere in the lineup."

Ironmen Cut 8, Including OU's Rivers

WHEELING (AP) — The Wheeling Ironmen cut eight backfield men from the squad today to get down to the Continental Football League — limit of 30.

Coach Bob Snyder announced the eight players would be put on waivers and if no one picks them up they could be carried by the Ironmen as taxis.

Out from the team were: quarterback Barney Keszler of Central State, Okla.; flanker Ronnie Fountain of Northeast Louisiana; defensive back Dennis Penza of St. Norbert, Minn. offensive back Sanford Rivers of Youngstown,, Ohio, Ohio University;

Flanker Bob Benjamin of Northwood College, Mich.; linebacker Bill Aston of Fresno State College, Calif.; and offensive back Tom Middletown of Benedict College of South Carolina.

Leaky Line Mounties Weak Spot

MORGANTOWN (AP) — West Virginia University's football team is in trouble at the offensive tackle and guard positions.

Coach Jim Carlen pointed to the trouble spots after the squad's one hour scrimmage Wednesday with the second team defensive unit.

Wingback Ron Pobolish and Quarterback Tom Digon scored touchdowns in the workout and converted soccer player Ken Juskowich booted a 27-yard field goal.

Joe Manchin of Farmington announced he will quit football because of a bad knee. He injured the knee in apractice session last spring and said he has had two operations since.

Lisbon Gridders Name 3 Captains

LISBON — The Lisbon High School football team will have three captains, all seniors.

Coach Edwin (Bud) Bucher said the squad selected tackle Jim Morgan and halfbacks Mike Rutecki and Gary Toot.

The Blue Devils will open their season Sept. 8 at Southern Local.

Lisbon has signed Youngstown North to play here Sept. 15, filling an opening left when Wellsville dropped football for financial reasons.

Mounties Picked As Grid Champs

The Mountaineers received the first - place vote on 10 of 16 ballots and were second on all others cast.

The poll chose William and Mary as likely to finish second and East Carolina third.

Veteran Chargers Try To Climb Back

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

ESCONDIDO, Calif. (AP) — To Coach Sid Gillman of the San Diego Chargers, the merger of the American and National Football Leagues might be the greatest thing since the amalgamation of Adam and Eve.

But you can carry a good thing too far, and that is what Gillman possibly has done by scheduling three consecutive exhibition games with National League teams.

"If the merger hadn't come about," Gillman said, "we as a club would have been dead, assuming we followed the same policy."

He referred to the Chargers' policy of not extending lucrative bonuses to college players who also had been drafted by the NFL.

The Chargers failed to sign their high draft choices for two years, and they paid for it last year by skidding from the top of the Western Division to within one spot of the bottom.

Came the merger and the common draft, however, and the Chargers started signing their draft choices again. They also scheduled those three interleague games with Detroit, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh. No other AFL team scheduled more than two games with the NFL, and none on consecutive weekends.

Now their problem is can they come out of those battles unscathed enough to start the regular season in competitive fashion?

The answer could be no, and it could damage the Chargers' chances to climb back up the ladder.

"We have to go all out in preseason games," Gillman said, explaining his exhibition philosophy. "We'll settle for nothing less. Any veteran who thinks he can turn it on for the regular season is wrong. You can't turn it on and off like a light switch. You have to turn it on from the start."

The Chargers have quite a bit of experience to turn on.

There are Lance Alworth, the league's premier pass receiver; Paul Lowe, one of the most dangerous runners in the league; John Hadl, the second leading quarterback in 1966; Kenny Graham and Speedy Duncan, two of the top defensive backs, and tackle Ron Mix, the only man to make the All-Star team every year the league has been in existence.

Now in his sixth season, Hadl has not been less than second statistically in passing the past three years.

Lowe, on the other hand, dropped off last year to 643 yards rushing from his record-breaking 1,121 the year before. The 30-year-old halfback wants the record back — Boston's Jim Nance broke it last year — and if he even comes close to getting it, San Diego could be trouble.

Joining Alworth on the receiving end of Hadl's passes are split end Gary Garrison and tight end Jacque MacKinnon. With Mix in the interior offensive line are tackle Ernie Wright, guards Walt Sweeney and Ed Mitchell and center Sam Gruneisen.

Defensively, Gillman has bolstered his line by acquiring end Tom Day from Buffalo for Keith Lincoln. He also picked up tackle Scott Appleton and linebacker John Baker from Houston for Miller Farr.

Appleton is fighting holdovers Steve DeLong and George Gross for a job while Baker could break into a starting spot along with Rick Redman, Frank Buncom or Chuck Allen, who was injured after San Diego jumped to a 4-0 record last season.

"I never did have a good feeling about our team last year, even when we were 4-0," Gillman said.

This year, though, brings a different feeling.

"We have lots of talent, and potentially we have a real fine team," he continued. "We have lots of youth, tremendous interest and we'll have one of the finest defenses we've ever had. If we have some luck, we'll win some games."

Unless they lose them even before the season starts.

Rookie Cornerback Ward To Face Atlanta

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—Rookie cornerback Carl Ward will get a chance to crack the varsity Friday night when he opens against the Atlanta Falcons in a National Football League exhibition game.

Ward, a 5-foot-9, 180-pounder from the University of Michigan, was drafted fourth by the Cleveland Browns but got off to a slow start because of a training camp injury.

Coach Blanton Collier said, "Carl was primarily an offensive player in college and many people wondered why we drafted him. We were thinking of him all the time as a kick return man and defensive backfield prospect."

"Our talent scouts always keep in mind that aggressive offensive backs frequently develop into good defensive pro players," Collier added.

"There also is precedent for fellows his size doing well in the National Football League. Pat Fischer of St. Louis is one of the good cornermen. And he's no bigger than Carl."

Ward, who played high school football at Cincinnati Taft, wil get the chance in Atlanta because Mike Howell still has a back injury.

Cycle Climb Slated For East Palestine

The American Motorcycle Association has granted the Pirate Motorcycle Club of Youngstown a sanction for a 2-Star Professional Hill Climb, which will be held at East Palestine on Sunday on Route 170.

The hill, 170 feet long with a 67 degree slant, is one of the toughest in the state.

Four big events are scheduled with special events for boys. Starting time for the first event is 2:30 p.m.

Fitzjohn-Jones Wins Chester All-Star Game

The Fitzjohn - Jones all-star team defeated the Staley - Davis team 17-6 to conclude the Chester Softball League action for the year at Chester City Park last night.

B. Lyons was the winning pitcher, while Mountjoy suffered the loss. Kip Glass and K. Gregory led the hitting for the winners, while Murray and Cashdollar paced the losers' attack.

Midland LL Team Loses To Ambridge

The Midland Little League team lost to Ambridge 4-3 in the finals of the Leetsdale Little League Tournament at Leetsdale last night.

The team had moved to the finals with a 7-5 win over Pitcairn last week behind the pitching of Dave Thompson and the hitting of Ed DiCiccio.

Mexicans, Chicago Win In LL Play

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—The possibility of two foreign teams meeting for the Little league World Championship loomed today for the first time in the 21-year history of the tournament for baseball's small fry.

When Linares, Mexico, rallied with two out in the last inning Wednesday to edge Northridge, Calif., 1-0, it set up two foreign teams in the semifinals for the first time since the Little League World Series began here in 1947.

West Tokyo, Japan, beat East Trail, B.C., 3-0, Tuesday on a last-inning home run by pitcher Masahiro Miyahara.

Upholding the honor of the United States in today's pair of semifinal games (2 p.m. and 5 p.m.) are Newtown - Edgmont, Pa., which meets Tokyo in the opener, and North Roseland, Chicago. North Roseland won Wednesday over the U.S. Naval Station, Rota, Spain, on a 1-0, no-hitter by 12-year-old Bob Stratta—the eighth no-hit, no-run game in series history.

The championship game is scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday, and only twice has the title left the country — in 1957 and again in 1958 when Monterey, Mexico, took it.

Richmond Boosts Lead In IL To 2

By The Associated Press

When the history of the 1967 International League baseball race is written, it may well show that the tide of battle was turned, as it so often is, by a United States Marine.

Pitcher Jim Britton, who only last Sunday ended a two-week Marines summer training stint, gave Rochester only seven hits in a 6-1 Richmond victory Wednesday night that boosted the Braves' first - place margin to two games over Rochester.

In other action, third-place Toledo—the only other team in the league above the .500 level—was shut out by Buffalo, 2-0; Syracuse blanked Jacksonville, 4-0, and Columbus edged Toronto, 6-4.

Lefty Phil Henderson spun a four-hitter in Buffalo's shutout of Toledo. Daryl Patterson's three-hitter went to waste for the Mud Hens.

Elvio Jiminez' two-run triple in the eighth inning was the turning point in the Columbus-Toronto contest.

DRIVE A LITTLE, only about three miles from East Liverpool, out Lisbon Street, and SAVE A LOT. Due to the lowest overhead in the area, I can help you keep more of those dollars in your pocket and at the same time, put in a high quality dependable used car. Low overhead is possible due to no lot or garage rental cost, no floor-plan, expenses and no salesmen commissions. Many dealers attempt to make $300, $400 or even more on each sale. I prefer making a small profit and building up a long list of satisfied customers who will become repeat buyers. Car after car. Do yourself and your pocket book a favor by shopping out on Lisbon Street between LaCroft and Glenmoor where every vehicle is honestly represented and full prices plainly marked on each unit, not plus trade-in.

CHEUVRONT MOTORS

DRIVE A LITTLE, only about three miles from East Liverpool, out Lisbon Street, and SAVE A LOT. Due to the lowest overhead in the area, I can help you keep more of those dollars in your pocket and at the same time, put in a high quality dependable used car. Low overhead is possible due to no lot or garage rental cost, no floor-plan, expenses and no salesmen commissions. Many dealers attempt to make $300, $400 or even more on each sale. I prefer making a small profit and building up a long list of satisfied customers who will become repeat buyers. Car after car. Do yourself and your pocket book a favor by shopping out on Lisbon Street between LaCroft and Glenmoor where every vehicle is honestly represented and full prices plainly marked on each unit, not plus trade-in.

A Junior Editors Quiz About CROQUET

QUESTION: Where did croquet come from?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Croquet evolved from the old French game paille-maille (palla, ball, and malleus, mallet). Being a pleasant game which both men and women could play, paille-maille was taken up by the royal families of France during the 1600's. It crossed to England and became popular there with the name changed to pall mall (there is a famous London street named after it). The name finally changed to croquet, from the French crochet, a stick used in playing a game. Early settlers brought the game to America. In the American version of croquet, each player has a matching stick and ball. You start from in front of the end posts, trying to knock the ball through two wickets placed one mallet's length apart, then through the nearest wicket to the right, through the center wicket and, after having passed another right hand wicket, through two wickets in front of the second post, which must be hit. You come back on the other side. The player finishing the course first wins. You hit once each turn, but have two strokes if you go through a wicket, hit a post or an opponent's ball.
